WAR ON RENT PROFITEERS

FIGHTING SPIRIT IS NEEDED ON LOAN

New England Must Subscribe $93,051,000 by Tomorrow Night or Go Down in Failure

Is New England going to fail in the Victory Loan?

The sixteenth day of the campaign finds the district only 75 per cent. subscribed and New England's ringing answer to this question must be made in terms of $46,500,000 a day in the next two days if the loan is to succeed.

To date the subscriptions total $281,949,000. This is $93,051,000 short of the quota of $375,000,000.

New England's fighting spirit is coming to the fore to ward off the threatened peril to New England's honor and traditions. Whirlwind rallies will mark the closing hours of the campaign in which heroes of the Yankee Division will urge the people to "finish the job" as the boys did over there.

Ole Hanson, Seattle's fighting mayor, who came into national prominence two months ago by the manner in which he handled the I. W. W. in that city, will come to Boston tomorrow to address rallies.

Banks throughout the entire district will keep open until late to-

LEAKING SCHOONER TOWED TO THIS PORT

The American schooner Alice Mary Davenport, commanded by Captain Sears, was towed into this port today from Vineyard Haven, where she put in because of a bad leak. The vessel sailed from New York on April 28 with 1,800 tons of general merchandise consigned for Buenos Aires. The schooner was built in Bath, Me., in 1905 for the late A. H. Davenport of Malden. It was recently sold to the New York owners.

Note Found in Bottle Says the Cyclops "Is Sinking"

By International News Service.

New York, May 9.—A bottle containing what purported to be a message from the United States collier Cyclops, missing with all on board since she sailed from the West Indies two years ago, was found in Long Island Sound today and turned over to the navy authorities. The message said the Cyclops was sinking, but did not give her location, leading navy authorities to believe it was a "fake."

JEERED BY MEN FULL OF LIQUOR, SAYS LOVETT

Half a Dozen Men Blamed by Colonel for Trouble at Engineers' Banquet

"Half a dozen men, full of liquor and trying to beat July 1 to the finish, are solely responsible for the disturbance during my speech," said Colonel L. deB. Lovett of the 14th Railway Engineers to the Boston American today.

Colonel Lovett was hissed and jeered at, and referred to as a "Simon Legree," during a banquet at Symphony Hall, where he made a farewell speech to the men of the regiment. This banquet was provided by the railways from which the men of the regiment were recruited by the State, the city of Boston, and Association of Friends of the 14th Engineers.

Colonel Lovett said that he regretted the disturbance not so much on his own account, but rather because it marred an affair upon which much effort had been made in preparation.

"I know every one of the men who made the trouble," said Colonel Lovett. "I even knew they were going to cause a disturbance, because I received a communication from them yesterday afternoon in which it stated that I would not be allowed to speak.

GERMANY'S DOOM IN TREATY

Scheidemann Denounces Versailles Pact as Violation of Wilson's 14 Points

By ALFRED G. ANDERSEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, via London, May 9—Premier Philip Scheidemann announced today that the German peace envoys at Versailles had been instructed to present a reply to the allies, pointing out the divergences between the peace terms and President Wilson's fourteen principles and to try to start oral negotiations.

The German plenipotentiaries have been instructed, also, to request the reason for the "hard conditions" which are said here to be unacceptable to Germany.

The terms as outlined at Versailles "pitilessly abandon Germany to the deepest fall in history," according to Premier Scheidemann. He declared that the terms were contrary especially to the fourth, fifth, seventh and eighth principles enunciated by President Wilson.

"The German people will fight to the last in the struggle for peace and will use all of their strength," said Herr Scheidemann.

"In the meanwhile, the German delegates have been notified to tell the allied plenipotentiaries that Germany's counter claims will be presented within the fixed time—two weeks."

The German premier characterized the terms as "Germany's death sentence." He continued:

SHAWMUT BANK BUYS LAND FOR NEW BUILDING

Acquires Numbers 70 to 80 Devonshire Street for Addition to the Institution

The National Shawmut Bank has acquired the real estate next adjoining its present property on Devonshire street, comprising the Parker Building, numbered 78-80 Devonshire street, and the two next adjoining properties numbered 70-72 Devonshire street and 74-76 Devonshire street, comprising a total area of land of about 7,000 square feet, with a rear entrance on Congress square. This will make a frontage for the bank of 145 feet on Devonshire street.

The bank will shortly begin the erection of a new building on this land, to become a part of the Shawmut Bank Building, because of the large increase in business of the bank. The whole of the first floor and a portion of the rest of the addition will be devoted to bank purposes.

Large, modern safe deposit vaults will be placed in the basement of the proposed addition and in the basement of the present Shawmut Bank Building.

This purchase will increase the floor area of the Shawmut Bank quarters between fifty and sixty per cent.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—The NC-1 and NC-3 will hop off tomorrow for Trepassey, on the second leg of their trans-Atlantic flight, the Navy Department announced this afternoon. They will not wait at Halifax for the NC-4, which is to return to Rockaway for repairs, it was stated, but would have proceeded today had it not been necessary to replace four propellers.

ACTION BY MAYOR TO PROTECT TENANTS

Complaints Given to Assessors; Probe Under Way in Brighton-Allston District

Mayor Peters today opened war on Boston landlords who are profiteering on rents.

Acting on fifteen complaints from tenants in the Allston and Brighton districts, he directed Chairman Edward T. Kelly of the Board of Assessors to make a thorough investigation of conditions.

"We'll get at the bottom of the complaints and will in every way attempt to prevent profiteering," declared Chairman Kelly today after a visit to the Allston and Brighton complainants. He added:

"We find that a number of landlords have raised the rent anywhere from $3 to $7 a month. This seems excessive, [illegible] for the increase in taxes last year on a [illegible] house was but $11.

"Of course the owners of large apartments have some degree of excuse, due to the increased cost of coal, labor, repairs, cleaners, supplies, etc. But we can see little excuse for the landlords increasing rents in the tenements.

"At the same time, the weapon which the assessors have in their power to raise valuations is two-edged. The landlord, if his valuation is raised, may again turn to the tenant and declare that he, the landlord, is suffering as well as the tenant."

Complaints of rent profiteering are widespread in Boston. The Mayor is acting only on letters sent to his office, but there are hundreds of other cases which have not been brought to his attention.

In practically every part of the city landlords are accused of taking advantage of the shortage in apartments to increase rents, in some cases as high as 20 per cent.

The present shortage in rentable houses and apartments is due to the suspension of building operations during the war and to the great increases in cost of materials and labor.

STORY OF REMARKABLE FLIGHT TOLD BY PILOT OF THE NC-3

AVERAGE SPEED OF PLANES IS MILE A MINUTE

By COMMANDER HOLDEN C. RICHARDSON, U. S. N.

(Pilot Naval Airplane NC 3, Who Will Report the Great Trans-Atlantic Air Flight for Universal Service.)

Halifax, N. S., May 9.—After traveling at an average speed of a mile a minute from Rockaway Beach, N. Y., which we left yesterday morning for Halifax, a distance of 540 miles, we are safely at anchor in the spacious harbor of Halifax, having made the long journey on the first leg of the trans-Atlantic flight without mishap to either Number 3 or Number 1 planes.

It took us nine hours exactly to fly from the American station to this harbor. Everything went so well that we are looking forward with great expectation to the completion of the journey across the Atlantic. We anticipate having better weather to Trepassey than we did on the way to Halifax.

No. 3 hydro-aeroplane left Rockaway Beach at 10:07 followed closely by No. 4 and No. 1. At 10:10 a. m. we left the water and took formation. We headed east along Long Island with a moderate offshore wind blowing.

We then cruised well out to sea where we met a fair breeze. We passed Montauk Point and then soared over Block Island travelling south at an altitude of 2,300 feet.

Block Island light was abeam at [illegible] p. m. We maintained good speed all along and when nearing Woods Hole we were obliged to ascend higher, going up to 2,600 feet on account of meeting "bumpy air." Then we observed some haze ahead and after running through this we had good visibility. At three o'clock we were in the vicinity of Monomoy Point and we rose to 3,000 feet.

LEAVE LAND BEHIND.

At this hour we lost sight of land. No. 3 plane was then leading with No. 1 second position and No. 4 following in the rear.

At 4:02 o'clock we encountered the first heavy wind squall of the journey. This kept all on board busy, as the wind came in sharp gusts and we felt it very much. We traveled through these wind squalls at intervals, and after meeting them for about thirty miles we sighted land on the Nova Scotian coast at 4:30 o'clock.

NO. 3 KEEPS THE LEAD.

This land was on the port bow and we first observed it at 4:50. I think that this land we saw was Seal Island. At 4:55 p. m. all was going well. No. 3 plane was still in the lead, with No. 1 following about three miles behind. We kept well off the land until 7:05 o'clock, when we cruised to the lee of the land, as the wind became very breezy.

We lost sight of NC-1 plane then and did not see it again until it reached the landing buoy at the eastern passage of Halifax harbor.

We had not the slightest trouble with the engines of our machine. They ran smoothly from start to finish and the planes came up to all expectations on the journey from Rockaway to Halifax. She answered the helm perfectly and not a hitch in any way. All the members of the crew are in good health and fit and eager for the trip across the Atlantic.

ANXIOUS TO BEAT IT.

We had NC-3 plane towed up to the cruiser Baltimore, at anchor in the harbor, and she is taking on gas and oil for the second leg of the journey from Halifax to Trepassey.

We were fortunate in reaching Halifax before darkness set in.

The welcome that the craft in the harbor of Halifax gave us when we hove into sight was surely appreciated and was more than we expected. It was 9.30 o'clock before the airmen were taken off their machines and conveyed in launches to the United States cruiser Baltimore where they enjoyed a good hot supper.

Naval Curtiss, or 'NC' or 'Nancy' for Short

NC doesn't mean much to you, does it?

But the answer is very simple. The mystic symbol means Naval Curtiss.

So the NC-1 is the Naval Curtiss Number One. The NC-3 is the Naval Curtiss Number Three. And, consequently, the NC-4 is the Naval Curtiss Number Four.

They are Curtiss ships because they are made by the Curtiss company.

And in the service, they call 'em "Nancies."

of the naval patrol and that our landing was a forced one, caused by engine trouble. The exact details of this trouble I cannot give at present."

CHANGING AIR CURRENTS.

As he talked Commander Read was seated in the office of the commandant of the Naval Air Station. With charts, rulers, dividers and other equipment at hand, he was preparing to get up his official report for Washington.

He was asked whether resumption of the flight of the NC-4 depended upon orders from Washington or upon himself. He said it depended upon both, also upon circumstances. Speaking of the flight and its interruption, he said:

"It was very rough offshore yesterday and extremely cold. One thing struck me as peculiar. I would be very cold at periods and then, in a few minutes, I would get warm again. In all my previous experience, whether flying or on the ground, once I became cold, I was apt to remain so. I cannot account for these spells of alternating heat and cold on the flight yesterday.

"Everything went pretty well until suddenly, about 3 o'clock, we were forced to make a landing on the sea. Up to this time we had seen numerous patrol boats at intervals. When we alighted on the sea the other two planes were out of sight.

"The seas were mountainous and our machine was tossed about furiously. For a long time there was no sign of any patrol boat and it was apparent that they had lost all track of us. We took an observation, which showed us to be about eighty miles due east of Highland Light.

FINALLY GOT A TOW.

"After getting our bearings we headed toward Chatham and were a long distance toward shore when we were picked up and towed the rest of the way. We landed here about 7.30 last night.

"I am now making out my official report for Washington. What our next move will be depends largely on circumstances. I don't think, however, that we are out of the running. Mechanicians are now working on the machine and it is possible we will be under way again shortly. Everybody is feeling fine and no one wants to give up the race."

SENATORS FAVOR ALLIANCE MOVE

Washington, May 9.—The proposal that the United States should join Great Britain in a guarantee to go to the defence of France should the latter be again attacked on her eastern frontier has become extremely popular among the Senators.

It is probable that if a vote were taken on the proposal today very few votes in the Senate would be cast against it.

The strongest advocates of the plan are Republicans. The reason for this is that they see in this proposal a sort of acknowledgment that the League of Nations is not going to be effective. They are unable to understand why, if the league will do all that its proponents claim for it, there is any necessity of setting up another guarantee of protection for the nation which is first in line of a problematical German attack.

The unofficial submission of the proposal has thus brought about an extremely peculiar situation in the Senate. Opponents of the League of Nations, with the exception of Senator Borah, are giving strong indorsement to the suggestion that the United States should join the defensive alliance.

Concealed behind their advocacy of the plan, however, is the idea that the proposed alliance would act as an offset to the league.

Senator Moses of New Hampshire, a league exponent, declared himself in favor of the defensive alliance.

Senator Sherman of Illinois, another of the league exponents, made a similar statement.

"The proposed alliance has not been submitted to us, but I can see if our own peace were threatened that we might be very glad to have such an alliance," he said.

Senator Borah is opposed to the idea of an alliance for the reason that he is fundamentally opposed to any form of "entangling alliances" on the part of the United States with any other nation.

"SIMON LEGREE" A MISNOMER.

"Two of the men in question," he said, "I know to be the hardest workers in the entire regiment. They did splendid work in France, and anyone who knows the history of the regiment will understand that the term 'Simon Legree' as applied to me is a misnomer, for the reason that it was not necessary to drive these men to work. They worked without it."

Reports which have been current that Colonel Lovett was not popular in his regiment were circulated in Symphony Hall before Colonel Lovett rose to make his farewell speech to the regiment.

Following a speech by Mayor Peters, the colonel had been introduced by John H. Phelan, president of the Association of Friends of the 14th Engineers, who remarked that Colonel Lovett would make his farewell address to the boys. No hand clapping greeted the colonel as he stood, but soon from the rear of the hall hisses were heard.

The colonel began his speech and cries and yells of "Sit down" were heard from different parts of the hall. "We don't want to hear you," "Never mind talking," were some of the other phrases which stuck out from the hubbub.

DEFIED BY COLONEL.

"Let those who want to make me sit down come up here and do it," shouted Colonel Lovett.

He then began his speech of some 500 words which went through to the end, although only a few of those nearest to him had any idea of the subject of his remarks because of the noise.

At the head table with the colonel were Mayor Peters, Mr. Phelan, James H. Hustis, district director of the railroad administration; B. H. Tollock and C. W. Rigby, also identified with the administration; Lieutenant-Colonel D. S. Brigham, Major R. G. Henderson, Major Ralph Bradley and Major E. P. Morrison, all connected with the regiment.

SLAYER OF MRS. BROADWELL AT BARRE, VT., HUNTED IN BOSTON

WOMAN IS SOUGHT BY POLICE

Believe Grace Grimes Can Tell Whereabouts of Man Who Committed Crime

Barre, Vt., May 9.—The hunt for the slayer of Mrs. Lucina Broadwell has shifted to Boston. The authorities have admitted today that the case is closed so far as local clews are concerned.

They have sent to Boston a photograph of Grace Grimes, who is well known locally and whom they would consult regarding Mrs. Broadwell and some of her intimates. It is not believed that the Grimes woman has any knowledge of the actual murder, but that she can furnish some positive information concerning the whereabouts of the man who so brutally strangled Mrs. Broadwell.

ONE SUSPECT ELIMINATED.

The American reporter is in possession of facts which tend to point strongly toward the elimination of one leading suspect.

This man has been grilled for a second time but the authorities have learned nothing that would aid them in the case in so far as he is concerned. The early morning grave digger is still sought.

The authorities have not discarded the theory that the murder was committed within 200 feet of the spot where the body was found. On the contrary, everything that has been forthcoming in connection with the latest suspect tends to strengthen this theory. The place in question is one that has long borne an unsavory reputation. It is one spot against which the drive of the purists of the city is being directed.

It has not, however, a liquor license and any liquor that is consumed in the building is brought there by the occupants.

Rose Pelky, a Graniteville woman, was grilled by the authorities. She entered into the case when it was claimed by a local woman that Mrs. Broadwell had been seen in a South End house on the night she was murdered. Through Mrs. Pelky it was proven that the latter was the woman in the house on the night in question. There is a similarity in appearance.

CLERGY ASKS CLEAN UP.

The city is aroused as never before owing to disclosures resulting from this crime and it seems certain that Barre is in for a clean up. In some circles there is a talk of an appeal to Governor Clement for aid in eliminating vice. The clergymen of the town, headed by the Rev. James W. Reardon of the Universalist Church, are a unit in denouncing conditions.

The Rev. Bert J. Lehigh insists that the efforts of some of those working on the case have been directed to besmirching the character of Mrs. Broadwell. Mr. Lehigh is positive that Mrs. Broadwell had worked hard to render Barre spiritually clean.

The better class of people here say that the nine saloons or cafes operating under license are all properly conducted. They insist that the chief trouble has come from unlicensed premises operating here.

SEEKS HOME FOR CHILDREN.

Today Harry Broadwell, husband of the victim, went to Burlington to find a home for his three motherless children. At present they are at Hyde Park with his mother, but owing to her advanced age he does not consider it possible to leave them with her permanently.

Numerous witnesses are being questioned today at the office of a local justice of the peace with sheriffs and constables in attendance. Inquests are not held here, ordinarily, but the present proceedings might properly be construed as such.

HUNGARIAN 'REDS' FALL TERMED ALLIED TRIUMPH

Berlin, May 9.—Deep disappointment has seized the German press as a result of the collapse of Bolshevism in Hungary. "We are not partisans of Bolshevism," says the Frankfurter Zeitung, "but we look upon the fall of the Budapest soviet government as a great misfortune. The speedy fall of this government is a new triumph for the allies."

Twenty graduates of St. John's Seminary at Brighton were ordained to the priesthood today by Cardinal O'Connell at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross on Washington street.

Cardinal O'Connell celebrated the ordination mass, which was participated in by the twenty young priests following an elaborate and impressive ceremony in the presence of more than 2,000 people. One hundred and thirty seminarians from St. John's were seated on the dias within the altar rail during the ceremonies.

Several hundred relatives and friends of the newly ordained priests occupied the centre section of the church which was reserved for them. Hundreds of parochial school children with their teachers occupied seats near the front of the church.

Following mass, Cardinal O'Connell, seated on the throne before the altar, addressed the twenty new priests on the privileges and responsibilities of the priesthood.

"The first six months of your service in the high office to which you have been consecrated will be the test of your worthiness and devotion," he told the assembled young men who stood reverently during the cardinal's charge to them.

Cardinal O'Connell impressed upon his auditors the high responsibilities which were theirs and urged them to do their part to save the world through the power of righteousness.

During the course of his address Cardinal O'Connell said:

"You must take your stand against the spirit of intolerance, of selfishness and of sloth wherever they display themselves.

"You are charged with high responsibilities and grave duties. The powers of darkness in the world must be overcome through your devotion to religion and your safe leadership in the way of righteousness.

"Nothing less than complete consecration and hard work will enable you to discharge the responsibilities with which you have been entrusted. You have been given the power of curing souls and of controlling human destinies. You have the power to save the world from wickedness. The church expects you to use that power to heal and bless mankind.

"Yours is a thankless task in the eyes of the world, but the benefits are eternal in the sight of God."

Following his charge to the newly ordained priests, Cardinal O'Connell addressed the parents and relatives of the men briefly and bestowed upon them the thanks of the church for their sacrifices and devotion "in thus assisting to replenish the great army of Christ."

Following the services of ordination, the newly ordained priests administered blessings to those who remained to receive them in the lower church.

Missing Brown Shoe Found, but There's No Romance

That missing brown shoe for which Madame Frances of No. 79 Harvard street, Brookline, advertised has been found and was today returned to her by William H. Kean, assistant superintendent of the Shepard stores. It was found by George Cooper, a Shepard employe, in the Tremont street marble corridor entrance to the store and was sent by special messenger to Madame Frances.

The suggestion of romance was contained in the advertisement published in the American Wednesday last, which read:

"Lost—One brown shoe; reward. Madame Frances, No. 79 Harvard street, Brookline.

But Madame Frances denied there was any romance in it at all. "The high cost of shoe leather is behind that ad," Madame Frances said. "Nobody values slippers for romance—not with shoes at $12 a pair. This was my sister's shoe, bought at a bargain sale and never worn. I took the shoes into Boston to have them fitted with little pump buckles, but I suppose I lost the shoe in the subway crush."

3 DROWNED IN POND NEAR HAVERHILL

Boy Only One Saved as Boat Overturns When Fisherman Casts His Line

Haverhill, May 9.—Three Haverhill men were drowned within fifty feet of shore in Chadwick Pond today, when their boat was overturned as one of the three arose to cast a fishing line. Ten-year-old James Comeau, who accompanied them, saved himself by clinging to the capsized craft.

The bodies of the three men, all about fifty, were recovered by the police after the water had been dragged for an hour. They were Harry Presby, George Haselton and Frank Haselton.

The tragedy occurred in water less than twelve feet deep. It is one of the worst in the history of Chadwick Pond, which annually claims several victims among fishermen and swimmers.

The only story of the overturning of the boat was given rather incoherently by the Comeau boy, who was nearly exhausted. His cries rang across the pond and reached the ears of Ralph Taylor, an attorney, who dressed hurriedly and rowed to the spot, just as young Comeau's strength was failing.

The boy said the boat, anchored at both ends, was easily unbalanced and one of the three men overturned it while throwing out a line. None of the four could swim, the police learn.

The boy was at the time sitting close to Presby, who struggled desperately in the water in an effort to save himself and Comeau. Presby's struggles soon became weaker and, realizing that he was never to span the few feet between himself and safety, he put young Comeau on the bottom of the overturned boat, saying, "It's your only chance, kid; I hope you come through."

The men, who were all employed in this city, went fishing late yesterday afternoon.

STRIKERS AND POLICE CLASH AT TOLEDO

Bricks and Clubs Used in Fight; Auto Plant Closed

Toledo, O., May 9.—Bricks, stones and clubs were used as weapons in a fierce clash here between strikers in the plant of the Willys-Overland Company and strikers of the auto factory. The trouble reached such a grave stage that the plant was closed down for the day. Nobody was seriously hurt.

The riot resulted when several hundred strikers attempted to talk with employes who had refused to join their ranks.

Nearly 175 policemen were rushed to the plant. All traffic policemen were taken from the streets and ordered to report at the plant. Labor officials claim 10,000 men are on strike.

CHARGE JUDGE IS PREJUDICED IN RIOT CASES

Lawyers for Defendants Try to Have Cases Transferred, but Judge Hayden Refuses

Charging that Judge Albert F. Hayden of the Roxbury court was prejudiced in the cases of the May Day rioters, Attorney Edward H. Stanley today made a motion for the transfer to another justice of the nineteen cases of rioters which came up in that court.

The motion was answered by Judge Hayden, who stated that he felt competent to handle the cases and he refused to grant Stanley the motion.

Attorney Thomas J. Connolly, counsel for some of the defendants, then asked the court to rule on a question of law and read passages from the Massachusetts statute relating to rioting.

One section which he read to the court stated that a riot cannot be qualified unless the Mayor, sheriff, deputy sheriff or a justice of the peace is present to read the riot act and order the dispersal of the rioters.

He stated that the police officers who made the arrests in the May Day riots did not qualify under the statute and asked that the cases be dismissed.

Upon Judge Hayden's refusal to dismiss the cases Connolly said: "You are not only prejudging cases, but prejudging the law as well."

The first witness in today's hearings was Patrolman Israel Solomon of the Dudley street station, who testified to the circumstances of the riot and identified Michael Karelan, Ignatius Jankofski, Henry Paznano and Joseph Tenore as having been in the parade on that day.

QUOTA REACHED BY LYNN.

Lynn reached its quota today following a great mass meeting which pushed up the total of subscriptions to $4,545,000. Marlboro passed its quota of $558,000 and won a beginning-to-end honor flag for its record in each of the five loans. Arlington was the second town in the metropolitan district to officially go over the top.

Other New England towns added to the honor roll today were Montgomery, Richmond, Vt., Little Compton, R. I., and Hebron, Suffield, Chester, Clinton, Killingworth, and Montville and North Stonington, Ct.

$1,738,100 SUBSCRIPTION.

Among the large subscriptions of the day was one of $1,738,100 from the cotton, woolen and textile industries. Other large subscriptions reported at loan headquarters were:

Belgian war veterans as they appeared on arrival at South Station today. Note the dogs—also veterans of the battlefield. The dogs hauled machine guns in the storm of shell from the invaders' guns. Today these dumb heroes, like their brave human comrades, seemed to fully enjoy the atmosphere of real Boston freedom.

Loan $1,700,000,000 'Shy,' But Treasury Officials Are Confident of Success

By International News Service.

Washington, May 9.—With $1,700,000,000 to be raised by midnight tomorrow if the Victory Loan is to be put over, Treasury officials today showed more optimism than might ordinarily be expected in the face of what seemed to be a discouraging situation.

They pointed to the fact that in all of the four preceding Liberty loans, there was a golden flood of dollars in the closing hours of the campaigns and were counting upon around a billion to be subscribed tomorrow. This, with the average half-billion today, and with scores of subscriptions made but not yet actually recorded, was expected to bring the total up to the $4,500,000,000 goal.

Belgian Troops Raise Thousands in Loan Rally Held on Common

Standing in a circle with fixed bayonets, with their famous Belgian dog-teams carrying machine guns in their centre, 108 Belgian war veterans, every one of them, including the seven officers wearing at least one decoration for valor on the battlefield, raised several thousand dollars at the Victory Loan rally on Boston Common today.

Lieutenant H. C. Mills of the 22d Balloon Company ascended in the captive balloon on the Common, and telephoned to Liberty Cottage that he would not come down until $1,000 had been subscribed. It was raised in a short time.

GIRLS HUG CAPTAIN WHILE UP IN BALLOON

"Girls hug tighter when they are up in a balloon 2,500 feet in the air," explained Captain J. D. Jones, commanding the 22d Balloon Company, who took two young Boston women up in a balloon on Boston Common today. He was detailing his experiences to a number of officers at the army headquarters. "The girls started off all right," he continued, "but when they found themselves far up in the air they seemed to want some protection and they clung to me just as hard as they could when the basket began to sway."

MILLION FOR LOAN ON WORCESTER'S "SIMS DAY"

Worcester, May 9.—"Admiral Sims Day" resulted in a subscription of $1,000,000 in tribute to the man who commanded the American fleet in European waters during the war and sent Worcester over the top. Subscriptions are now stated unofficially, to be close to the $12,000,000 mark. The quota is $11,283,000.

V Loan Sidelights

The offer of a German helmet to the first school, church or woman's club 100 per cent. subscribed led women to subscribe who would not have, the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee of New England is informed. As a result the Home Travel Club of Framingham has applied for a helmet.

The woman's committee in Easton has obtained more than half of the $250,000 raised toward the town's quota. Mrs. R. B. Porter is chairman of the committee.

Connecticut women lead New England in the amount of money secured for subscriptions by their efforts alone. The total is $12,761,650. Boston women have raised nearly half a million by their appeals.

Approximately $10,000 worth of notes were bought in a thirty-minute campaign on Summer street between Filene's and the office of the American today. The salesmen consisted of twelve of the crew of fire ladder truck No. 8, under Captain H. A. McClay, and five young women. Deputy Chief Daniel Sennott was speaker and booster. Victory Loan girls went among the people and took subscriptions. They were Mrs. R. J. McDonald, Miss Helene O'Mealley, Mrs. John Hyde, Miss Olga G. Ayer and Mrs. McKay. Sailor Dick McShane was also on the truck and aided in sales.

CITY WELCOMES HERO BELGIAN TROOPS

One hundred and fifteen Belgian soldiers, all that are left out of thirteen regiments, arrived in Boston today to take part in the Liberty Loan drive.

The war worn veterans, practically all of whom were decorated for valor, were greeted at the South Station by a welcoming committee and escorted to the Hotel Bellevue for breakfast. The meal was followed by speeches, and at 10 o'clock the soldiers paraded to the Common, where they took part in a rally for the Liberty Loan.

The men were in command of Captain Alfred Dirix of the Third Regiment of Carbineers. The other officers were: Lieutenant Henri Lejeune Vincent, Lieutenant Emile Vervloet, Lieutenant Jacques Herard, Lieutenant Charles Devriendt, Lieutenant Joseph Schepers and Sub-Lieutenant Edmond Wallays.

On their colors were inscribed the names of Liege, Dixmude, Yser, Kereken, Steadenburg and Lys. The standard bore the Arms of Belgium, and fastened to the flagstaff was a rosette placed there by King Albert.

Wearing their trench helmets, the soldiers descended from the train and stood at salute during the playing of the Belgian national anthem. An interesting part of the equipment was a machine gun squad, the guns drawn by six big dogs, all veterans.

The reception committee at the station was headed by Alexander Whiteside, chairman of the Massachusetts Committee on Citizens of Foreign Birth or Descent. The others were Edward E. Moore, E. Sumner Mansfield, Belgian consul; Reddington Fiske, John S. Codman and Frank W. Bernick; also Joseph H. O'Neil, Henry Parkman, Charles S. Rackerman, Francis Peabody and Graydon Stetson, all of the Liberty Loan committee. The following named Belgians were with the reception committee as guests of the Liberty Loan people: Edward Blockell, F. S. Buleus, Moeste Alloo, Nic de Dose and Aug de Mulenaer.

Among the decorations worn by the veterans were the Cross of Belgium, the Cross of Leopold and the Belgian War Cross, while some of the men had as many as eight citations for distinguished service.

Captain Dirix is a chevalier of the Leopold Cross. He wears the Order of the Crown of Belgium, the Medal of the Yser, and a war cross with five citations. Lieutenant Vincent wears a Medal of Yser and the war cross with three citations. Lieutenant Vervloet, First Regiment Grenadiers, is chevalier of the Order of Leopold, has eight citations on the Belgian War Cross, wears the Cross of St. George and the Medal of Yser.

Lieutenant Schepers, chevalier of the Crown of Belgium, wears the Belgian War Cross with four citations. Lieutenant Herard, 12th Infantry, wears the Belgian Military Cross, War Cross with three citations, Medal of Yser. Lieutenant Wallays wears the Belgian War Cross, four citations, French Medale Militaire, French War Cross, British D. S. C. medal.

$1,000,000 Is Paid by Rockefeller for Ball Signed by Matty

New York, May 9.—The highest price ever paid for a baseball was paid here when John D. Rockefeller gave $1,000,000 for a sphere autographed by Christopher Mathewson of the New York Giants at the Victory Loan rally at the sub-treasury.

Several baseballs autographed by other prominent local ball players brought magnificent sums. Arthur Fletcher, captain of the Giants, received $500,000 for a ball from the New York Trust Company and J. P. Morgan and Company bought one from Larry Doyle for the same amount.

BEVERLY FIRE ALARM FOR VICTORY LOAN RALLY

Chief Levi Goodhue of the Beverly Fire Department was not going to see the Victory Loan lag in his city if a little "pep" would help. He rang in a fire alarm from Box 126, which is in Depot square, in the shoe district. Everybody ran to the "fire." What they saw was a very fine exhibition of fire fighting by the local department, after which the chief called a Victory Loan rally and secured many subscribers.

HOOSAC MILLS ORDER MEN TO DRAW WAGES

North Adams, May 9—The Hoosac Worsted Mills, one of the three textile factories whose weavers struck Monday to enforce demands for a reduction from fifty-eight to forty-eight working hours a week, notified its weavers to call for their pay today, and also announced that the other employes would be paid off immediately.

This indicates intention of the firm to shut down rather than grant the weavers' demands.

J. R. White of Cohoes, N. Y., organizer of the Textile Union of America, will reach here today in an effort to adjust the trouble.

WORCESTER HEALTH BOARD ON WARPATH

Worcester, May 9.—The Massachusetts Civil Service Commission is "in wrong" with Worcester's Board of Health.

Slowness in sending a certified list of eligibles for appointment of health inspectors is the reason.

Today is the eighty-seventh day since the request was sent in, the examination for the positions having been held on February 21.

The Board of Health will hold its next meeting Monday and hopes by that time to have a certified list from which they intend to appoint four assistant inspectors under Colonel John F. Hurley who is now chief inspector.

METHUEN WATER HEAD IS REFUSED OLD JOB

Lawrence, May 9.—A hearing on twenty-seven charges against Thomas Mahoney, former superintendent of the Water Department of Methuen, was held in that city by the Water Commission.

Mahoney had been drafted into the army, and when he returned his job was taken by another man, who refused to be ousted until Mahoney's legal position is established.

The commission claims that Mahoney was inefficient and prefer charges against him which they claim outweigh the fact that he was in the service.

The hearing involves various alleged misdoings of the former incumbent of the office while he was superintendent.

GIRL SCOUTS TO GREET LEADER TOMORROW

Sir Baden-Powell Will Review Parade in Gala Day Program

Girl scouts from all over Massachusetts will hold a gala day tomorrow afternoon when, with Sir Robert Baden Powell, international head of the scouts as their guest, they will parade, hold a meeting in South Armory and later entertain their guest at dinner and a reception at the home of Mrs. James J. Storrow.

Sir Baden Powell is visiting here to form an international council of scouts. The first steps were taken in London last February, when Mrs. Juliet Lowe, national scout leader for the United States, was present.

MISS LOOMIS DIRECTS.

The route for tomorrow's parade has been completed as follows: Starts at the South Armory at 1:15. From Irvington street to Huntington avenue, from Exeter to Commonwealth avenue, down the north side past the reviewing stands it goes back to Arlington street, where it traverses Huntington avenue to the South Armory again.

The arrangements, which are under the direction of Mrs. James J. Storrow, State commissioner; Miss Caro F. Colburn, Mrs. Stephen H. Roblin, Miss Emilie H. Everett and Miss Marian Scott, are complete to the last detail. Ten cars from the Red Cross Motor Corps will transport Sir Baden Powell and the guests of honor to and from the armory and the reviewing stand.

A first aid tent has been established in the rear of the grand stand and is in charge of New Bedford Girl Scouts. Captain Robert Ware, of the First Corps Cadets, has drilled the girls, and Miss Helen Loomis will direct for Boston.

Miss Alice Sandford, director for Massachusetts, assists in State matters. Others who take an active part are Miss Marian Moreland, Miss Caroline Freeman, Miss Anna Vinton and Miss A. B. Chapman.

SONGS TO FEATURE.

After the parade, exercises at the armory include an address by Sir Baden, a salute to the flag, the singing of the national anthem, and the War Song conducted by Herbert W. Smith, song leader for the First Naval District.

In the evening Mrs. Storrow opens her Beacon street residence for a dinner and a reception. Girl Scouts will cook and serve the dinner. Two hundred guests have been invited to the reception, including General Edwards and staff, the Governor and Mayor, President Lowell of Harvard and other educators.

Father Seeks Blood to Save Life of Little Son

A good blooded person, who is willing to volunteer for a minor blood transfusion, is being sought by Samuel Koratzky of No. 4 Eaton street, West End, who seeks this service that the life of his five-year-old son, now at the Massachusetts General Hospital, may be saved. The boy is suffering from anemia.

The little boy, Joseph, spent nine weeks at the Massachusetts General Hospital in the latter part of the Winter, suffering from this condition of bloodlessness. At that time, Louis Swein, a neighbor, volunteered to submit to the transfusion operation. He gave a quantity of his blood and later the boy returned to his home.

On Monday of this week, the boy was again brought to the hospital. It was determined that another transfusion is needed at once.

PLEA OF JUROR WINS LENIENCY IN DEATH CASE

Hounded to Commit Crime, Says Judge in Jailing Paradis for Year

Houlton, Me., May 9.—Lewis Paradis, found guilty of manslaughter in the death of Arthur Chamberlain, was sentenced to one year in the county jail.

Judge Cornish, before announcing sentence, said in substance:

"The verdict, in my opinion, rendered by the jury was absolutely correct. It showed the stuff with which they were made. Yet at the same time they coupled an unusual request with their decision, when the foreman met me in my room and said 'for heaven's sake, Judge, you must be lenient with this man,' feeling certain the man did not intend to kill.

"I don't think he is that kind of a man. I have given this matter most serious thought and am going to impose a light sentence. I trust it will not be criticized, but I feel sure that if every one heard the case as I have heard it all sympathy would go out to this man, who was hounded to commit the crime he did.

"I shall take the responsibility of not sending this man to State Prison, but will give him a light jail sentence."

At the closing of the court Judge Cornish sentenced Samuel Coats of Stockholm, indicted for manslaughter, to one year in County Jail and suspended sentence. Coats while out jacking deer shot his companion through a mistake.

In a similar case, Ray Thompson of Presque Isle, for shooting an Island Falls man through mistake for a deer while hunting last season, was sentenced to one year in the County Jail, sentence being suspended.

Judge Gets "Bomb," But It Is Only Jumping Jack

Chicago, May 9.—Judge Frank H. Graham, of the South Side Municipal Court, "got a bomb" through the mail recently. The package was similar to the ones containing bombs addressed to several United States Senators and other prominent men of the nation and found in the New York postoffice.

The mail carrier handed it to Judge Graham just before court convened.

"It may be a joke," said Judge Graham, "but here is one man who is not going to take a chance," and hurried with it to the office of Captain of Police Smith. Gingerly carrying the box into a vacant lot nearby, police officers opened it.

Bingo! Out popped a "jumping jack."

"Great joke," commented Judge Graham, "but I couldn't laugh when the mail carrier delivered it to me."

THE MEN IN CLASS A1

A sound, healthy man is never a back number. A man can be as vigorous and able at seventy as at twenty. Condition, not years, puts you in the discard. A system weakened by overwork and careless living brings old age prematurely. The bodily functions are impaired and unpleasant symptoms appear. The weak spot is generally the kidneys. Keep them clean and in proper working condition and you will generally find yourself in Class A. Take GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules periodically and your system will always be in working order. Your spirits will be enlivened, your muscles supple, your mind active, and your body capable of hard work.

Don't wait until you have been rejected. Commence to be a first-class man now. Go to your druggist at once. Get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are made of the pure, original, imported Haarlem Oil—the kind your great-grandfather used. Two capsules each day will keep you toned up and feeling fine. Money refunded if they do not help you. Remember to ask for the imported GOLD MEDAL Brand. In three sizes, sealed packages.—Advertisement.

1 DEAD, 1 HURT WHILE BOILING FRENCH SHELL

Philadelphia, May 9.—While boiling a French 75 shell to remove its coating of paraffin, Harry Robbins, thirty, was killed and his young sister was seriously injured when it exploded. Robbins, a sailor, brought the shell from abroad. He placed it in a tea kettle on the kitchen range and he and his sister stood by watching the process.

URGES B. U. STUDENTS TO BUY VICTORY NOTES

Professor Dallas Lore Sharp of Boston University addressed the College of Liberal Arts students at their college sing, urging them to buy Victory notes, if not individually, then in groups. "I would like every class, every fraternity, every sorority and all organizations, if there be any others, to buy a bond," he said.

ART MUSEUM DEFICIT GIVEN AS $29,652.40

The annual report of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts shows a net deficit of $29,652.40 in the operating expenses for the year 1918. President Morris Gray in the report recommends the adoption of a policy of broader service, and calls upon the public for wider support, "that the greatest possible value may accrue to the public from the priceless collections on exhibition."

"You have better values: why not shout more?"

A WOMAN who had carefully observed and compared the values in undermuslins that the month of May brought to Boston came to us the other day with this statement:

"Your store has the best values in undermuslins in Boston. Yet you are talking less about them."

Her idea was that we should call these May undermuslin values "a sale," shout at the top of our lungs, and perhaps indulge in wild superlative regarding "special values" and "sale lots."

Why should we? The kind of values we offer Boston in May may perhaps be unusual elsewhere: they are the sort of thing we do all the time here.

The Filene method is to give good values all the time, to all the people. That is why it is a good store every day and not on certain days at certain hours!

COATS

Women's fitted coats of duvet militaire and velours; lined, $38

Sketched. The coats are the rare kind that bring out the best lines of both slender and full figures.

The lines are a happy compromise between straight and fitted; the waistline is broken without using a belt.

Choose from duvet militaire (summer silvertone) and wool velours.

Women's new serge coats and capes, $19.75

Filene's—mail orders filled—fifth floor.

$38 (fully lined)

Wanted blouses

1. Women's white tub satin blouses, $5.75

A firm, lustrous, worth-while quality. The blouses have deep revers and ONE big pearl button.

Sketched, a Paris-copied crepe de Chine blouse, $5.75

2. Women's organdie blouses, $3

Some have double white organdie scalloped collars; some have colored handkerchief-like borders on collars and cuffs. The organdie has a dimity-stripe.

Filene's—mail orders filled—fifth floor.

Women's linen jacket dresses, $14

(Women's Lower Priced Shop)

$14

Made in a good "suit" style with vestee front, and long, soft roll collar of white gabardine.

Either coat or skirt may be worn separately with white skirts or blouses.

Everything about them is nice—the rimmed pearl buttons, the tailored pipings, the slashed skirts.

Danish blue or rose, a few in lavender, sizes 34 to 44.

Few silk frocks, $14—foulards, Georgette-veiled taffetas, satins, crepe de Chines.

Filene's—mail orders filled—sixth floor.

Draped tricolette collars on these misses' capes, $25

(Misses' Shop)

$25.00

Full, flary, short, with the becoming circular yoke. Tan wool velours is used for the cape proper, navy blue tricolette for the big draped collars.

Misses' black satin or black moire Dolman wraps, perfect to wear over graduation and other light frocks, $29.75.

Filene's—mail orders filled—fourth floor

Foulard-banded sailor hats, $2.50

Many in new short-back style, banded with ribbon (sketched).

$2.50

All are coarse, shiny straw and come in the most sought-for colors—navy, dust, old rose, jay blue, cherry, purple and black.

LAWYER FLAYS 'JIM' CASSIDY IN ARGUMENT

Pattengall in Will Case Pictures Defendant Before a Crowded Courtroom

Bangor, Me., May 9.—Bangor society people crowded the Penobscot County Court room today to hear the closing arguments in the famous Cassidy will case now drawing to a close. The case has been in progress for two weeks. Today there was hardly standing room on account of the intense desire to hear the summing up of both sides.

Attorney William R. Pattangall bitterly arraigned James W. Cassidy as a foe to the other members of the family who seek to break the will. He laid great stress in the opposition of Jim Cassidy to the marriage of his sister Mary to Dr. T. J. Murphy. Although Jim had denounced Dr. Murphy to his father as a man who "chased women," and was addicted to drink, the attorney declared that the other side was unable to bring forth a single witness to testify against Dr. Murphy's character.

True, Postmaster William F. Curran had admitted dining with Dr. Murphy at the Niben Club in 1904 and it was testified that liquors were sold at the Niben Club contrary to law, but the question under discussion was whether or not Dr. Murphy was dissipated, and, declared the attorney:

"I cannot see why it is any more reflection on a man's habits to be seen in Young's or the Parker House, or any other Boston hotel having bars.

AGAINST DR. MURPHY.

"James Cassidy did not want Dr. Murphy to marry his sister Mary because he feared that Dr. Murphy would get some of the Cassidy fortune. He unduly influenced his [illegible]her against Dr. Murphy and that [illegible]s the first link in a chain of circumstances that led to his finally influencing the father to tie up his [illegible]te so that the other son and daughters would not get their share [illegible] their father's wealth. It has [illegible] testified that Jim said 'If you [illegible]y Dr. Murphy I'll see to it that [illegible] doesn't get a cent of father's [illegible]ey.'

[illegible]im testified that he loves his [illegible]her and sisters, but does he, or [illegible]he? When his sister Mary was in [illegible]on with her dying husband and [illegible]ed money he wrote her 'Dear [illegible]am, I have no money for you. [illegible]es W. Cassidy.' Is that the kind [illegible] letter that an affectionate brother writes? He wrote to his sister, [illegible]elle, another "Dear Madame' letter in which he told her that she [illegible]ld take the house he had pro[illegible]red for her or go without. Yet he [illegible]retended that Roselle was his favorite sister.

"TWO JIM CASSIDYS."

"Gentlemen, there are two Jim Cassidys, one the pleasant, frank, gentleman whom you have heard testify on the stand as to his love for his father and sisters, and the other who writes these curt and unfeeling letters to his sisters. Testimony regarding oral statements of a few years ago may be uncertain and indefinite, but these written letters reflect the real relations between James and the other heirs, and it is partly because of this lack of affection for his brothers and sisters that he influenced his father to put the fortune under his control."

Who's Who in the 26th Division

Captain Alfred J. L. Ford, a widely-known Boston newspaper man, was born in South Boston twenty-eight years ago. He has lived in that district all his life, securing his education at Thomas N. Hart School and South Boston High. He was a student at Boston University Law School. He enlisted in Ninth Regiment, M. V. M., November 1, 1915, and was rapidly promoted.

From July 1, 1916, to November 18, 1916, he served at the Mexican border as regimental supply sergeant. He was again called into Federal service March 28, 1917, and on May 21 was sent to Plattsburg training camp by the Department of the Northeast, U. S. A.

On August 14, he was commissioned captain of infantry, reporting to 76th Division headquarters on August 27. The next day he was assigned to the 101st Infantry under Department of the Northeast orders. He sailed for France with the 101st September 6, 1917. He served as assistant to division quartermaster, entraining officer, and A. P. M. at Soissons at various periods while in France, doing much administration and supply work. Upon his request he was returned to duty with the 101st on October 2, 1917, after an absence in other fields for eight months.

On October 27 he was transferred to the 35th Division and did organization, welfare, entertainment and daily details. The engagements he participated in included Chemin des Dames defensive, Toul, Apremont and Seichprey sector, Chateau Thierry defensive and offensive, St. Mihiel sector work and Meuse-Argonne offensive. Captain Ford is married.

$175,000 ASKED BY WIFE FOR DESERTION

Mrs. Watson Charges Husband Became Enamored Over Baroness de Doory

Mrs. Martha R. Watson, in a $175,000 suit filed in the Superior Court, says her husband, having become enamoured with Bertha Cameron, also known as the Baroness de Doory, has gone away and that she is without support.

The suit is against Arthur Watson of Cohasset and the Watson Bros., Inc., and alleges a conspiracy on their part to prevent her from securing the benefit of property owned by her husband, Frederick L. Watson.

They were married she says in January, 1904, and lived happily together until about 1916, when he became infatuated with the baroness.

Although he deserted her, she says he continued to provide for her up to a certain time, although in a much less liberal manner than that to which she had been accustomed as his wife.

She further states that he declared that if any attempt were made to complain of his association with the aroness he would no longer provide her.

ore leaving Boston, she asserts, usband conveyed to his brother, Ar, an expensive residence in Co . and transferred other real es in Lynn to his brother Elbridge ason.

Both brothers are stated to have nown of the purpose of the transfers.

The Watson Company is alleged to have purchased the capital stock owned by her husband in the company and paid him money which he could use when he went away.

Springfield, Ill., May 9.—Commenting on the return of Private Fred Skagge, 130th Regiment from overseas, the Shelbyville correspondent of a local newspaper here says:

"Skagge is a fiddler and the son of a fiddler, and when he went to camp he took his faithful fiddle along. Reports reached here from time to time that he was giving his comrades much pleasure and comfort with his music, and some time since he wrote his father to get the old fiddle fixed up in good shape as he had learned some new tunes in France which he would teach to 'pa' when he got home."

WOUNDED Y. D. MEN ASK FOR TRANSFER

Ask to Be Sent from Devens to Parker Hill, to Be Nearer Home

Camp Devens, Ayer, May 9.—Protesting at being confined in the Base Hospital here on the grounds that it is a long distance from home and expensive for relatives and friends to visit them, wounded members of the Yankee Division have requested former commanding officers to see what can be done to transfer them to the hospital on Parker Hill, Roxbury.

Captain David Brickley of the 101st Machine Gun Battalion, whose home is in Winthrop, and who was decorated with the Croix de Guerre and Distinguished Service Cross for deeds of valor, called to see the wounded men and was much impressed with their story of mental suffering in not being able to get home or see their relatives.

"I have been asked by the men to enlist the support of Governor Coolidge in getting them transferred to the hospital on Parker Hill, Roxbury," said Captain Brickley, who expects to be discharged from the service shortly. "The men have a just complaint and we intend to do all we can to gratify their wish to be a little nearer their homes.

EASIER FOR VISITORS.

"If these wounded men are transferred to the Roxbury Hospital it means that it will be a great deal easier for visitors to see them. Of course I know visitors can come here and see the men, but there is one big obstacle, the train and automobile fare. Relatives of these poor fellows cannot afford to pay train fare here and then hire a bus or automobile to take them to and from the Base Hospital.

"There are four men of my company here, Sergeant John Webster, who is undergoing treatment for two fingers on his right hand; Private Ruston, whose two legs were saved in France by the skill of French surgeons; Stanley Roberts, suffering from a wound in the left arm, and Private Floyd, who was gassed and perforated with machine gun bullets. These men want to get transferred to Parker Hill Hospital. I could cite the names of others. I'm sure Governor Coolidge will intercede with the military authorities for the transfer of all Yankee Division men to hospitals near their homes."

There was a mule chase in the vicinity of the new camp laundry. It was exciting while it lasted. The participants in the chase were young women, several of whom were bowled over by the beast in its anxiety to go over the top of a hill. One of the camp rough riders lassooed the mule and with the assistance of agents of the Department of Justice placed him in the stockade.

TO INVESTIGATE CLAIMS.

So many claims have been made by overseas officers for goods alleged to have been lost or stolen from them in this cantonment that boards of officers have been appointed to investigate. Touching on these claims officials of the War Department warn investigating boards to communicate with the Lost Baggage Section, Transportation Service, Purchase, Storage and Traffic Division, General Staff, Washington, D. C., to ascertain whether or not the claimants' property has been located.

Reservations have been made in different barracks for the housing of the 32d Division, Medical Supply Detachment and Mobile Laboratory, 121st Machine Gun Battalion, 104th Mobile Veterinary Section, detachment of 121st Field Artillery, Hospital Trains Nos. 46, 47, 48, 49 and several casual companies. The men are due here May 15.

300 DOUGHBOYS SEE BALL GAME AS MAYOR'S GUESTS

Three hundred members of the 32d Division, a Wisconsin division now stationed at Camp Devens, attended the ball game at Braves Field as the guests of the Mayor's Reception Committee for Returning Soldiers, Sailors and Marines through the courtesy of the owner of the Red Sox, Harry Frazee.

Before going to the game, Colonel Carl Penner, Major A. A. Kuechenmaister and Captain A. H. Smith of the 120th Field Artillery of the 32d Division made a visit to Liberty Hall, Boston Common, and the U. S. Employment Bureau.

They examined Boston's methods of providing returning soldiers with jobs. This division, which recently arrived from overseas, will leave in a short while for Camp Grant, Wisconsin, to be demobilized.

RINGGOLD, GEORGIA, MAN WRITES

A thankful letter about the benefits received from using Sulpherb Tablets. Its effects are like grandmother's remedy of sulphur, cream of tartar and molasses. But this consists of sulphur, cream of tartar and herbs, in a sugar-coated tablet, easy and pleasant to use, for bad blood, stomach, liver and bowel disorders.

Mr. John M. Plemons, Ringgold, Georgia, writes: "I had an awful bad case of stomach trouble and constipation, and had the service of a specialist with only temporary relief. I saw an advertisement of Sulpherb Tablets and began using them, and in a short time noted very good results, and I further used them, and at this time am perfectly well as far as I can tell. I don't recommend anything unless I receive some good results. Some friends use them and they also note good results, etc." Druggists sell Sulpherb Tablets everywhere. Don't take ordinary "sulphur" tablets and be disappointed.—Advertisement.

MOULDERS QUIT IN 14 PLANTS AT WORCESTER

600 Strike for $5.80 and Eight Hours Awarded Them by War Board

Worcester, May 9.—Six hundred moulders employed in fourteen Worcester foundries are out on strike today to secure a new wage scale of $5.80 for an eight-hour day, retroactive to October 1.

This scale was the one decided upon by the War Labor Board, to which body the men submitted their grievances last Fall. The foundry owners, who have had no dealings with the War Labor Board, have refused to accept the decision of that body upon the advise of their counsel.

Foundries affected by today's walkout are: Pond Machine & Foundry Company, Rice, Barton & Fales, Standard Foundry Company, Wells Chemical Bronze Works, Union Water Meter Company, Pere Foundry Company, Worcester Foundry Company, Coppus Engineering & Equipment Company, Worcester Polytechnic Institute Foundry, R. P. Power Foundry, Whitcomb, Blaisdell Machine Tool Company, Taylor Brass Foundry and Millbury Steel Foundry.

The moulders have established headquarters in A. O. H. Hall and are being led in the strike by Nicholas Smith of Cincinnati, an international vice-president.

MAY SELL RAILWAYS FOR CRANSTON TOWN TAXES

Providence, May 9.—The real and personal property of two street railway companies will be sold at auction on June 2 unless unpaid taxes are made good to the city treasurer of Cranston before that date. The roads are the Rhode Island Suburban Railway Company and the Union Railway Company, Inc. The two companies owe $14,679.44, according to Cranston authorities.

Patrolman Unearths Spanish Coin Dated 1733

Lexington, May 9.—While preparing his garden for planting, Patrolman John C. Russell forked up what he thought was a ten-cent piece.

He rubbed off the dirt and discovered it to be a piece of Spanish money, dated 1733.

The coin, a silver piece, about the size of a dime, but slightly thinner, was in an excellent state of preservation.

On one side it bore a coat of arms and a crown and around the edge was this inscription: "Phillipus V. D. G." On either side of the coat of arms were these letters: "R. S. L P. A."

On the reverse side was the date and also "Hispaniarum Rex." There were also some other designs and markings on this side.

Russell's garden is next door to the house where Jonathan Harrington, the last survivor of the battle of Lexington, lived, and was a part of the Harrington estate.

OLD MAN "COCCUS" IS EXECUTED AT CHICAGO

Chicago, May 9.—There was a public execution in one of the corridors of the City Hall recently and the criminal was one who had taken thousands of lives, slain fathers, mothers, children and entire families.

His name was "Pneumococcus." He was given a jury trial, indicted, and even heard threats of dire fates for his surviving relatives.

"Pneumococcus" was an effigy representing the germ which causes pneumonia. Dr. John Dill Robertson, Health Commissioner, "sprung the trap" that sent old man "Coccus" to his death.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, Etc.

Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acids and prevent the formation of gas or sourness by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antacid than Bisurated Magnesia, which you can get from any drug store, and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestant. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five-grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestants.

Try this plan and eat what you wa at your next meal and see if this is the best advice you ever had on "wh to eat."

'SHOE DEFECTS DUE TO FAULTY WORKMEN'

Leather Sound, Factory Head Testifies in Sears' Conspiracy Defence

Stephen G. Sullivan, superintendent of the A. J. Bates Company, Webster shoe manufacturers, whose vice-president, Frank I. Sears, is on trial in the Federal court, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government in making army marching shoes, stated that Sears gave orders "to live up to the specifications and not to let anything go out that is not absolutely correct."

Sullivan, the first witness for the defence, declared that his attention was called to some slitting of shoes by Government Inspector Farley, who had testified as a government witness relative to some of the shoes being unfit for use because of their material. Mr. Sullivan said that on being informed of the defects in the shoes that he told Farley that it would be stopped, and that he discharged a cobbler in the factory three or four days later for doing this same thing.

DUE TO POOR WORK.

The ten pairs of shoes examined by Inspector Farley a few days ago consumed much of Mr. Sullivan's attention while testifying. Some of these soles were admitted by the witness to be faulty, but he contended that in several instances the defect was due to the workmanship and not to the leather.

Picking up a pair of shoes which were government exhibits, Mr. Sullivan testified that the middle sole had been cut out, and added that "I wouldn't ask for a better sole." The witness on examining another pair of shoes stated that they contained very poor inner soles, this, according to Mr. Sullivan, being due to the fact that some one had cut in at the heel and buckled the inner sole.

The superintendent of the factory said that this shoe as it stands was defective because of bad workmanship. On examining another pair of shoes the witness contended that the inner sole would outwear the shoe. The shoes, according to Mr. Sullivan, had no harmful effects.

After examining another pair of exhibit shoes the witness stated that somebody has put a piece in it and that it should have been rejected.

HOLDS GOOD POSITION.

Another pair of shoes were testified to as having an inner sole as being "very coarse." He stated that in the case of first class inner soles the effect of a few days' wear would be shown on the sole. Mr. Sullivan told the court all sole leather was inspected and stamped by the government inspector before it was used. He stated that great care was used in the factory.

On being asked in cross-examination by Assistant United States Attorney Lewis Goldberg if he did not hold a good paying position with Bates Co., Sullivan admitted he did. Mr. Goldberg asked Sullivan: "You are very friendly to Mr. Sears, are you not?"

Mr. Sullivan stated that "I am loyal to the man I work for and tried to be fair in passing on the shoes. I didn't give a thought to the matter of his relations with Sears."

On re-direct examination the factory superintendent stated that he never heard of middle soles being split before they were put on shoes.

CORSETS CALLED LUXURIES BY ROPER

Head of Revenue Department Makes Ruling in Perplexing Dispute

Corsets are a luxury.

They are taxable under the luxury war tax measure.

These are the rulings of the Internal Revenue Department at Washington. Commissioner Roper was asked by various drygoods associations if corsets were taxable. The commissioner at first admitted he didn't know, but if corsets were underwear they would have to be taxed.

"Are corsets underwear?" came the next volley of queries that besieged the Washington office.

Officials in the Little Building were of the opinion that corsets were not underwear and consequently would not be subject to the new tax.

However, they advised patience awaiting the decision from Washington.

It was pointed out that through a joker in the luxury tax laws unscrupulous dealers can easily take advantage of the technicalities and thus reap a harvest.

For instance, a soda fountain proprietor, while collecting four cents in taxes for four five-cent drinks, could return two cents to the government on the pretext that he served a twenty-cent drink instead of four five-cent ones.

The regulations read that the dealer must charge one cent tax for every five-cent drink, one cent for each ten-cent and two cents for each twenty-cent drink.

Officials in the Little Building estimate $6,000,000 in revenue will be received this month in Massachusetts from soda fountains alone. It was figured that there are at least 10,000 soda fountains in use in this State.

CLAIMS FORMER EMPLOYERS BEAT HER

Boston Woman Sues Ex-Fuel Administrator of Maine and Wife for $10,000

Portland, Me., May 9.—The complete story of Miss Agnes M. Cooper's $10,000 suit for damages against former Maine Fuel Administrator James C. Hamlen, his wife, Caroline, and two police officers, was revealed following the filing of legal papers in the Cumberland County courts.

In her declaration Miss Cooper, now residing in Boston, alleges that she was refused payment of her wages when she announced her determination to leave the employ of Mrs. Hamlen, and that she was "beaten, bruised and ill treated" by Mrs. Hamlen when she endeavored to leave the defendant's premises.

"According to Miss Cooper's attorneys, she alleges that Mrs. Hamlen telephoned her husband, who appeared on the scene with two police officers, George A. Dingley and Harry B. Powers.

After quieting the participants, Mr. Hamlen paid Miss Cooper $12, according to Attorney Muldoon, and permitted her to depart.

TAKEN AWAY IN AUTO.

When on the sidewalk in front of the Hamlen residence in Portland, the two policemen, Dingley and Powers, are alleged to have offered to take Miss Cooper anywhere she desired to go.

She entered their automobile in good faith, according to the declaration, asking to be driven to the Y. W. C. A. building. Instead, she found herself unloaded at the Portland police station, booked and placed in a cell. All of the foregoing is alleged to have taken place on April 12, 1917.

During the night it is alleged that Miss Cooper was promised her freedom to return to Boston on the early morning train in return for signing a paper releasing all of the defendants from liability in connection with the affair.

This she refused to do, according to her attorneys.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Following her refusal to sign a release she was formally charged with assault on her former mistress, Mrs. Caroline F. Hamlen. This was on April 13, 1917. She pleaded not guilty and was ordered to appear in court on April 23 for trial.

Upon leaving the Portland police station Miss Cooper obtained counsel to fight the charge of assault on Mrs. Hamlen, but the case against her was nol prossed before the date for the hearing.

In the suit filed against the four defendants a charge of conspiracy is set forth, in addition to the three counts alleging assault and false imprisonment.

According to the papers in the case, Mr. and Mrs. Hamlen and Policemen Dingley and Powers "did wickedly and maliciously conspire, combine, confederate and agree together by force and arms to force the said plaintiff into the street and by means of false and fraudulent statements induce her to enter a certain motor vehicle owned and controlled by them, for the purpose of putting her in jail in order to secure from her a written release of her claims against Mrs. Hamlen for the alleged injuries sustained in her encounter earlier in the day." Or so the declaration states.

Miss Cooper is represented by her attorneys as being "a faithful, obedient and competent employe and guilty of no wrong or omission of duty toward either of her employers."

PLAINTIFF'S DECLARATION.

The plaintiff's declaration reads, in part, as follows:

"Count 1. For that the said defendants on or about the twelfth day of April A. D. 1917, at said Portland with force and arms did make an assault upon the plaintiff and then and there striking her with their hands upon the head, face, arms, hands and body and thereby cut, wound and bruise her, by means of which said several premises the said plaintiff was greatly hurt, bruised and wounded and became and was sick, sore, lame and disordered and suffered great pain both in mind and body."

"Count 2—For that the said defendants on or about the twelfth day of April A. D. 1917 at said Portland with force and arms assaulted the plaintiff and forced her to go from and out of a certain dwelling house into a certain public street there and restrained her of her liberty, imprisoned her and held her in servitude from said twelfth day of April until the thirteenth day of said April, without any reasonable or probable cause for a long space of time, to wit, for the space of twelve hours, at said Portland, and in one of the cells of a police station house there, against her will and consent, and against the law of the land, and other injuries the said defendants there, within that time, did to said plaintiff."

SAYS SHE WAS ABUSED.

"For that the plaintiff was, before the conspiracy hereinafter referred to, in the employ of the defendants, James C. Hamlen and Caroline F. Hamlen, as domestic servant at their dwelling house in said Portland and had on the 12th day of April, A. D. 1917, and before said conspiracy, terminated said employment by verbal notification to that effect to said defendant, Caroline, and then demanded the money then due the plaintiff from the defendants, said James and Caroline, and said defendant, Caroline, refused to pay the same and further refused to allow the plaintiff to leave said dwelling; that the plaintiff undertook to gather together her property and belongings in said dwelling and depart therefrom, but was intercepted and prevented in so doing by said Caroline, and further was, on said 12th day of April, at said Portland, assaulted, beaten, bruised and ill treated by the said Caroline."

KANSAS CYCLONE HELPS IN "CLEAN-UP" PROGRAM

Wichita, Kan., May 9.—A recent "young" cyclone here was a blessing in disguise to the advocates of "clean-up week." Pastor and Family Forced to Live in Church

New York, May 9.—Has progress a grudge against the minister or is he to be impelled again toward the convent regime? This is the question that might seem to confront the Rev. Stanley O. Tyndall, pastor of the Greenwood Heights Reformed Church, Seventh avenue and Forty-fifth street, Brooklyn, for Mr. Tyndall has been forced to set up housekeeping, not in a nearby rectory, but in his church itself.

The kitchen of the church is his or rather his wife's kitchen, the vestry rooms and various offices are his bedrooms, the church itself his parlor. Rooms that at night may be the scenes of solemn conclaves are during the day the "happy hunting grounds" of the rector's children.

The minister and his wife had been trying for some weeks to obtain rooms near the church or, in fact, anywhere in the Bay Ridge neighborhood. Their search was so fruitless that they were ultimately forced to take up their residence in the Seventh avenue building. To add to the joy of their position it is necessary to put "full steam" in the cellar of the church in order to heat a portion of the building.

SUCCESS OF "ZITZ" GAME DEPENDS ON WHISKERS

Topeka, Kan., May 9.—"Zitz" is the new game here that has developed an alertness on the part of Topekans. It is simple, but expensive.

Two people play the game. They must be together, but can walk any place they please. When a man with whiskers is seen the first one who sees him calls "Zitz" and the other stands the treat.

Mustaches don't count. There are just enough men wearing whiskers to make the game interesting.

ATTORNEY SUES ANOTHER FOR TRIAL FEES

Ex-Mayor of Pittsfield Charges Lawyer Failed to Divide Grant Money

Pittsfield, May 9.—Former Mayor P. J. Moore, an attorney, has filed suit in contract action against Attorney Robert M. Stevens, who studied law in Mr. Moore's office, the suit growing out of the Grant murder trial, held last month, in which Attorney Stevens defended Grant and Attorney Moore assisted.

Attorney Moore appears for himself in the suit, which is to come up May 1. He has an attachment for $500 filed on Attorney Stevens' property. The attachment was filed while Attorney Stevens was in Boston, where he is to visit Lincoln McKinley Grant, now serving his sentence to life imprisonment in the State penitentiary.

According to Mr. Moore, he was called into the case by Attorney Stevens at the request of Grant's father, Ira Grant of Lanesboro, and Attorney Stevens agreed to divide the fee of $500 with him. This money was paid to Attorney Stevens by the county treasurer, together with $101 for expenses in connection with the case, and Attorney Stevens, according to Moore, refused to settle up. The suit followed.

SOLDIER PHYSICIAN DOES "YOU FIRST" WITH HOLDUP

Springfield, Ill., May 9.—An "after you, my dear Alfonso," dialogue took place here between a returned soldier-physician and a burglar who was holding him up. The robber found the soldier had but 85 cents.

"This all you got?" he asked.

"Yes, I'm just out of the army," fibbed the soldier-physician, for he had tucked away a large sum which the buccaneer failed to discover.

"Take it back," said the burglar magnanimously. "You probably need it worse than I do."

"No, you keep it," replied the soldier.

Then they argued back and forth about it, which ended in the soldier keeping the money.

HAS GOB HELD IN JAIL BECAUSE SHE LOVED HIM

Waukegan, Ill., May 9.—To be held in jail two months and twenty-two days because a girl "loved him so," is the fate that befell George B. Sheldon, handsome young Great Lakes bluejacket.

Arrested December 24 on charges preferred by Helen Truelson, a Highland Park girl, he was held in default of $1,000 bail. During his incarceration he steadfastly professed his innocence.

Recently the case was heard in the County Court and when the girl took the stand before Judge Persons, she said:

"He is not the man. He is guiltless, but I loved him so. I wanted him to marry me, so I blamed him."

Sheldon was released.

GEORGE J. GOULD SUED FOR "WASTING MILLIONS"

New York, May 9.—George J. Gould, son and principal executor of the estate of Jay Gould, who left $80,000,000 when he died in 1892, was accused in Supreme Court here of having mismanaged the estate to his own benefit in such a manner that the estate lost $25,000,000.

The charge was made in an affidavit filed by Frank J. Gould, his brother, who asks George's removal as trustee. George Gould replied with an affidavit denying the charge.

Anna Gould who married Count Boni de Castellane, and is now the wife of the Duke of Tallyrand, is supporting Frank, but Mrs. Finley Shepard, formerly Helen M. Gould, is understood to be backing George.

An affidavit signed by Walter B. Walker, Frank J. Gould's [illegible], charged that the executor had perpetrated frauds, even upon his own brothers and sisters.

It is alleged that George J. Gould had committed persistent and consistent violations of the law governing a [illegible].

[illegible] supported by [illegible] attorneys for the [illegible] formerly Anna Gould and by counsel for [illegible] parties joining in the [illegible] for removal of the executor.

An affidavit filed on behalf of Mrs. Helen Gould Shepard, a co-trustee, formerly Miss Helen Miller Gould, declares the accusations against George Gould are "inaccurate and distinctly misleading," and that the actual facts will be brought out in the suit.

She deposes that no act of hers is involved, and that it is unnecessary for her to answer the allegations in detail.

WALKER'S AFFIDAVIT LENGTHY.

Mr. Walker's affidavit covers 273 pages.

It accuses George Gould with "breaches of solemn fiduciary duties, violations of confidence, improper investments, secret [illegible] made by him at the expense of the trust estate [illegible] on understandings and conferences between himself and [illegible] counsel to secure to himself [illegible] profits aggregating [illegible] doubtful debts of his own transferred into debts of the estate, moneys of the estate [illegible] commingled with his own [illegible] purporting to set forth the assets of the present estate."

RECORDS BURNED, CHARGE.

A further charge is made that George Gould and his son Kingdon Gould burned personal records and books which would have shown that the older Gould used funds of the estate for personal purposes.

The charge is made in an affidavit by Walter [illegible], guardian of Dorothy Gould, that George Gould made a secret profit of $820,461.71 through the sale of Western Union securities owned by the estate.

It is alleged that he retained this amount until after he had been served with an order for an examination before trial in the present proceedings, when he turned it over without interest to the estate.

This charge is also referred to in an affidavit by William A. W. Stewart, guardian of a number of other Gould children, who declares the transaction was "improper and illegal."

GOULD MAKES DENIAL.

Mr. Stewart, however, says that he reserves judgment in connection with the general charges until he has read George Gould's answer.

Counsel for George Gould filed an affidavit in behalf of their client in which he denies improper management of the estate and gives notice of his intention to apply for the appointment of a referee to pass upon his brother's motion for his removal.

Jay Gould died on December 2, 1892. Under his will George J. Gould, Helen Gould, Edwin Gould and Howard Gould were named executors and trustees of a trust created for the benefit of his children, but George Gould was given supervisory powers and deciding vote in the event of disagreement in any matter on the part of his co-trustees.

This distinction was explained on the ground that George Gould, for twelve years, had devoted himself entirely to his father's business and had [illegible] business [illegible]. As a special provision for his services he was given $[illegible] in cash and $4,[illegible] in securities.

PUT VIOLETS OVER FIRST DEAD.

Miss Gladys McIntyre, the older sister and Miss Corie Van Norden of the Van Norden family of New York, were the first to take up canteen work at the front in December, 1917, and they [illegible] on the graves of [illegible] killed in [illegible] The Misses Mc[illegible] members of [illegible] the Yankee Division [illegible] the only ones to ride in [illegible] Boston parade.

Mrs. Burdick and her husband came from the South and they were [illegible] by the soldiers. "Ma" Burdick [illegible] what the doughboys called her) said to me one day:

"This isn't work, it's a labor of love. If I attempted to do half as much at home I'd be ill or dead, but over here you don't think of time or effort. I've got a grown up family and my husband and I are awfully fond of our home but wouldn't swap jobs this minute with the finest [illegible] in Europe.

"The soldiers are so [illegible] and interesting and so grateful for the least little thing. I hate to confess that I had to come to France to [illegible] over what beautiful young men we had in America. Their mothers ought to be proud of them. They come in and ask your advice and your blessing and they say good-bye before they enter the front line and some of them don't come back. Nothing is too good for them."

The pace set by the ensigns at Ansauville was kept up by the Salvation Army at all fronts and with all divisions throughout the American operations and the credit it is getting in consequence is deserved.

The first girl welfare workers to reach the Rhine were Salvation Army Ensigns Miss Edie Hodges of Richmond, Virginia, recruited from Chicago and Miss Florence Turkington of South Manchester, Ct., sister of Miss Myrtle Turkington, one of the heroines of Ansauville. They travelled and slept on a motor truck and Fred Anderson of Tacoma, Wash., a field secretary, was with them.

The first Salvation Army canteen operated in Germany was established at Coblenz by Miss Margaret Sheil of Chicago and Miss Bertha Lowe of Newark, N. J. Drunken Germans tried to batter down the door of their bedroom the first night. They reported the case to the military authorities. Doughboys wanted to beat up the offenders.

But the Salvation Army ensigns simply changed their lodgings, bought a revolver between them and kept on toiling for the Yanks. I never met a Salvation Army war worker overseas, man or woman, who was a poser, or an idler, or a misfit. I never met one who was patronizing or narrow or unsympathetic.

So now you have the story, Jack, of how I "found" the Salvation Army in France.

CHECKS AWAIT ADDRESSES OF WAR HEROES

Money Will Be Paid Disabled Service Men if Designation Is Given

The Soldiers' War Service Bureau is in receipt of information that several thousands of dollars for disabled soldiers, sailors and marines await claimants at the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, Washington, D. C. To date there has been returned to the bureau 2,858 checks, representing compensation payments to these disabled men. The checks have failed of delivery because the men entitled to receive them have neglected to notify the bureau of a change of address.

Many men who have applied for compensation have given temporary addresses. Checks sent to these addresses are returned to the bureau. In making application for compensation all men are urged to give a permanent address to which checks may be sent and to promptly notify the bureau at Washington of any change of address.

The Soldiers' Service Bureau of the Boston American is dedicated to the purpose of assisting the soldiers and sailors of Uncle Sam. It is for officers and men alike. Answers to questions will be published in the American daily and many personal services will be done for the soldiers and sailors as stated below.

Address all communications to Soldiers' Service Bureau, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

Persons finding the discharge papers of soldiers or sailors should make every effort to return them to their owners. A discharge paper cannot be duplicated. The War Department can only issue a certificate that the discharge has been given. Frequently the owner loses his original, and would gladly appreciate its return.

All inquiries addressed to this department should be accompanied by the full name and address of sender to insure personal attention if necessary.

Petition to the Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy to send Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Home with Six Months' Pay

Sign this petition, get your friends to sign it, and forward it to the Boston American, 80 Summer st., Boston, Mass.

To the Honorable Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War:
To the Honorable Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy.

The undersigned respectfully urge you to return to their homes as soon as possible the soldiers, sailors and marines who have accomplished so brilliantly every object America had in the war.

We urge, also, that you obtain the necessary authority to pay these men their military wages for six months, or for some sufficient period after their discharge from the army until they can obtain useful and remunerative employment.

We urge this as an act of simple justice by a great nation to its heroes.

Famous for Quality

As Well as for Style

Copyright 1919 The House of Kuppenheimer

Kuppenheimer Clothes are the acknowledged leaders in style, but their immense popularity is based on something more tangible than that. Style is only skin-deep, so to speak. Style without quality is only transient—a snare and a delusion—never worth what it costs. But Kuppenheimer Clothes are first of all quality clothes, superior in fabrics and superb in tailoring. Added to such a foundation, Kuppenheimer style becomes a permanent, built-in feature which lasts the life of the garment.

Watch the Wear of your

Kuppenheimer Suit

If it's your first one you'll find a lot of pleasant surprises in it. You'll find that the collar continues to hug your neck as closely as when you tried it on in the store. You'll find that an occasional pressing is all that's needed to retain the original graceful lines in the lapels and entire coat front.

Every detail of style and fit that originally influenced your purchase is there to stay. That's why Kuppenheimer Clothes are so satisfactory, why so many men prefer them, and why this Live Store features them so strongly. Newport is the chief topic of conversation in metropolitan society. Yesterday I learned that the Dowager Mrs. Vanderbilt is having The Breakers, her imposing pile of stone at the [illegible] island watering place, made ready for her early arrival. Mrs. Vanderbilt has already closed part of her magnificent mansion at the corner of Fifth avenue and Fifty-seventh street, and she is looking forward to the migration to Newport with great enthusiasm, as she has always preferred her house in the colony of the cliffs to the Fifth avenue residence.

The reported visit of Mrs. Vanderbilt's daughter, the Countess [illegible] Szechenyi, the former Gladys Vanderbilt, is again being talked of [illegible] close friends of Mrs. Vanderbilt [illegible] she has heard [illegible] Gladys will come to America with her kiddies during the summer.

" . . . . ?"

"You know all right—but it's $120,471,000, and I must have it subscribed before Saturday at midnight."

THE message has come:
Uncle Sam wants $120,471,000 from New England.

Wants it now—wants it today—wants it right away—wants it as New England's remaining part of the Victory Loan—wants it to help pay for winning the war—wants it to make sure of the Victory that seventy-four thousand Americans gave their lives for.

"Hello—Hello, New England—
I'm waiting for your answer—"

From the seashore and the mountain, from the plains and templed hills, from the mill and the mart, from the fireside and the farm, from all those who believe in freedom, from the poor, the rich, the proud and the humble, must come that answer.

From you and from me—from the lips and the hearts and the pockets of seven million—ringing, rising, surging—the Mighty Voice of Staunch New England—

New England Will See It Through!

Face Peeling Habit Becoming Fashionable

Women of fashion and refinement seem to have been acquiring the mercolized wax habit, depending less and less upon cosmetics for their complexion difficulties. It does seem a lot saner to just peel off the wornout skin when it loses its youthful color and appearance—now that this can be done so easily, safely, painlessly and economically.

There's no trouble getting mercolized wax at any drug store (an ounce will do), since its virtues have become generally known here, and there's no trouble using it—just as you use cold cream, applying at night, washing it off next morning. The wax takes off the old scarf skin, in tiny flakes, a little each day. The new under-skin which gradually appears, is velvety soft and beautifully white, radiant with girlish loveliness. Any surface blemish, like pimples, red or yellow patches, freckles, etc., vanishes, of course, with the discarded cuticle.—Advertisement.

MASS MEETING BY 101ST IN FANEUIL HALL

Seek to Gain Representative Opinion Over Auxiliary Fund Controversy

A mass meeting of members of the former 101st Infantry, Boston's own, was held today at Faneuil Hall in order that the consensus of opinion regarding the controversy over the funds held by the 101st Women's Auxiliary Association might be secured.

The disposition of the fund was not discussed by the members, the meeting being held rather to insure protection of the good name of the regiment through a representative organization of the unit as a whole, against haphazard statements made by men not representing the opinion of the entire outfit.

No criticisms were made of anyone but the men declared they wanted to insure the equal sharing of all in the fund.

HAVE FINAL DECISION.

The meeting of the members of the Women's Auxiliary Association in conjunction with James J. Phelan and Joseph H. O'Neil of the associate members and Colonel E. L. Logan of the 101st Infantry at the East Armory resulted in the appointment of a committee which is to meet at 11 a. m. next Monday. This committee will make the final decision as to the disposition of the funds.

The committee is to be made up of Mrs. William W. Taff, president of the Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. Reynolds and the chairman of the comfort committee of each of the fifteen individual units. Mrs. Taff will act as chairman in the absence of Mrs. August Coleman, chairman of the comfort committee, who is ill.

The committee will be composed as follows: Mrs. William W. Taff, Mrs. August Reynolds, both of Brookline; Mrs. A. Perry of Allston, Mrs. Annie McVicar of Dorchester, Miss May English of Malden, Mrs. Charles Reichenbacher of Medford, Mrs. Elizabeth Welch of Lynn, Miss Mary Browning of Roxbury, Mrs. Lawrence Flaherty of East Boston, Mrs. John Campbell of Hull, Mrs. Arthur Hanson of Waltham, Mrs. Fleming of South Boston, Mrs. M. [illegible] of [illegible], Mrs. William Donovan of Winthrop, Mrs. Henry Cameron of Allston, Mrs. Richard McGowan of [illegible], Mrs. [illegible] of Charlestown and Mrs. [illegible] of Natick.

MRS. TAFF STATES FACTS.

Mrs. Taff, in vindication of the 101st Auxiliary, says:

"In justice to the men of the 101st Infantry, the Women's Auxiliary and the Associate Members, the criticism which have been the topic of criticism in the Boston papers [illegible] few days, I feel as president of one of the organizations involved that I must make a statement of facts to correct some erroneous impressions and misleading assertions may have created. In order to give a fair conception of our war work which was undertaken and [illegible] I have traced the pages back to the first chapter, in other words have gone to the root of things.

"The 101st Women's Auxiliary was organized [illegible] 1918, with Mrs. William W. Taff as president. It was a consolidation of the Fifth, Ninth, the Dandy Fifth and a few members of the Sixth Regiment committees. The interests of the three regiments were represented on the executive board. The present headquarters was secured in the Little Building and from the date of acceptance until the present time owing to the generosity of the Little Estate no rent has been paid, a form of practical patriotism rarely excelled.

"The plan of organization was to have a local unit in every city or town where the men of the 101st Infantry lived. The membership consisted of mothers, wives, sweethearts and friends of the boys and all worked and toiled together. I have never seen a more earnest body of women devoting their time, means and energies to their brave soldier boys. It was great team work.

DENIES ACCUSATION.

"Miss Barr resigned May 1, her chief reason, according to the Boston Herald on May 7, being that her proposals to spend the major part of the remainder of the funds for the civilian clothing of the returned soldiers were opposed by a member of the auxiliary who had no real knowledge of how the men wished the money spent. Later in the interview Miss Barr stated that Mrs. W. W. Taff of Brookline was the member. The president denies the accusation as a deliberate falsehood.

"We realize that the boys have become restless under what they think the slow process of the distribution of the funds raised for them. We must remember there are still boys overseas and boys in hospitals in this country and it is the desire of the Associate Members and the Auxiliary to be fair and square to all who are entitled to consideration. No injustice has been done to any man, but it has taken time to check up the names of boys which could not be done until the 101st Regiment had been demobilized.

"The funds are deposited in the Federal Trust Co. and are dispersed on recommendation of the Auxiliary and Associate Members according to the needs of the men and their families. The only money the Auxiliary has retained in its treasury is its membership dues on which it drew for the expenses of the [illegible] of the boys. The first item being part of the expenses of the Mothers' Welcome Boat, part of the ice cream sent the regiment at Camp Devens, apples delivered at Commonwealth Pier and the regimental ball at Mechanics building the night before the parade. The balance of the membership dues will be turned over to the relief fund.

ANSWERS FIVE QUESTIONS.

"To be specific, I shall answer the five questions propounded by some of the 101st Regiment.

"Question: How much money has the Auxiliary to spend on us?

"Answer: About $43,000 [illegible] as a combined Associate Members and Auxiliary fund.

"Question: Why were we not given bonuses this morning as was promised?

"Answer: The Auxiliary has not authorized to give bonuses, before made to such promise.

"Question: Has the money been spent on giving officers parties in France?

"Answer: The associate members [illegible] Colonel Logan to give the [illegible] a fitting celebration at Christmas and on the occasion of his [illegible] statement of the regiment.

"Question: How are we to get the money if any is to be given out?

"Answer: The meeting at the East Armory [illegible] determine that [illegible].

"Question: Does it amount to more than $[illegible] as we are told?

"Answer: No.

"I realize that our boys have returned from the scene of terrific action in many cases with overwrought nerves [illegible] of activity [illegible] publicity given [illegible] members and the [illegible] [illegible] have loved [illegible] that there had been [illegible] of [illegible] boys and a wonderful [illegible]. We know [illegible] well and every man of the [illegible] I have [illegible] grateful. I feel absolutely [illegible] 'Thank you, I understand.'"

FRENCH ALL SET FOR BIG TURF SEASON

Paris, May 8.—Despite certain modifications, owing to flat racing starting a month later than usual, the sport of kings will enjoy a big revival during the Summer season, which opened at Longchamp today and will be followed with meetings every Thursday and Sunday during the Spring season until June 15.

Five important races have had to be abandoned. Owing to the transport difficulties and the fact that the Chantilly race track is still in the hands of the military, such classic events as the Prix de Diane and the Prix du Jockey Club will this season be run off at Longchamp.

The other flat races will be run as usual, but the stakes will be considerably curtailed. This year, for thirty-one races, 1,777,050 francs has been allotted as compared with 3,173,305 francs for the thirty-seven races in 1913. The Grand Prix de Paris—the blue ribbon French season—will be decided on June 29. The principal dates at Longchamp are as follows:

Spring Season: Twelve days, May 8 to June 15. May 11, four-year-olds, biennial, $1,000. May 18, Produce stakes, colts and fillies, $6,000. May 25, Prix de Rochette, three-year-olds, $3,000. May 29, Prix du Cadran, $8,000. June 1, Prix Lupin, $8,000. June 8, Prix de Diane (French Oaks), $8,000. June 12, Prix la Rochette, four-year-olds, $4,000. June 15, Prix du Jockey Club (French Derby), $20,000.

Summer Season: Five days, June 19 to 29. June 29, Grand Prix de Paris, $10,000.

Autumn Season: Fourteen days, August 31 to October 26. September 14, Prix Royal Oak, $8,000. Omnium, $1,000. September 21, Prix Vermeille, $4,000. October 5, Prix du Conseil Municipal, $20,000. WARD AND WRIGHT TO ATTEMPT A COMEBACK

New York, May 9.—The famous doubles team of Holcombe Ward and Beals Wright will make its first appearance of the season on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club, at Forest Hills, L. I., tomorrow afternoon.

Ward and Wright won the National championship in 1904 and held it during 1905 and 1906.

Their opponents tomorrow will be Frank Anderson and Harold Taylor, two of the best junior players in this vicinity.

YOU'RE A PRETTY POOR SHOT!

ATHLETICS CALLING ON SOX

Cornelius McGillicuddy that's Connie Mack and his new Athletics, who have been doped by Damon Runyon et al to cut quite a figure in the American League race, are with us for three playing days, and were to open at the Fenway this p. m.

Connie and his crew are now in a tie for last place going true to form, one might say, if one wished to be cynical but nevertheless and notwithstanding those Athaletics have played some mighty nifty ball.

Of course he is [illegible] into one of those [illegible] in the Red Sox just now. The Champs have found themselves, and are breezing along, outhit and everything, but winning.

Yesterday was a startling example of this Sox [illegible]. The outfit made just five hits, but gathered three runs, which were just three more than the Senators could accomplish on nine blows.

The Washingtonians hit in practically every chapter, always had men on the bases, but never could knock them off. There were some thirteen Senators marooned in the course of the pastime, while only two of the Fenway folk were left stranded. Which shows the difference between a real classy team and a pretender.

It was a dolorous afternoon for the Peril of the Potomac, W. Johnson, who tired in the fifth and sixth after chucking four glorious chapters. When the Sox had built up a three-run lead Big Walter stepped out. He had everything he ever had, but doesn't appear to be fully ready

LIBERTY NOTES FOR HANKUS; CULLY IDEA

August (Garry) Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati Baseball club and chairman of the National Commission, has joined the drive being conducted by the American to give Hero Hank Gowdy a fitting testimonial.

He has forwarded his check for $10 and in the letter accompanying it praises the patriotic spirit which prompted Hank to join the colors after the United States entered the war at first call.

A. Mason of Boston, has sent $1 to the [illegible] fund.

From [illegible] Steff of Boston, was received 10 cents, with this letter:

[illegible]

Charles P[illegible]er of Lawrence also [illegible] that Liberty notes would make the best [illegible] to give Gowdy. He enclosed fifty cents and proved himself to be a real baseball fan who has a warm spot in his heart for the diamond's great war hero.

Here is a letter from Ray O. Orammer of No. 316 Huntington avenue, which came with a ten-cent contribution.

"To my mind, for a man coming out of the service, as is [illegible] in Gowdy's case, the most [illegible] will be a purse of the [illegible] and no doubt use [illegible]."

When you send your contribution, enclose your suggestion as to what you consider the best gift to give the Braves' star. Your effort may get you two tickets for Gowdy Day.

DEMPSEY'S PUNCH WINS HIM EARLY FAME IN RING

By DAMON RUNYON.

Copyright, 1919, by Damon Runyon.

Doubtless you never heard of Jack Downey, although that fact doesn't argue Jack Downey unknown.

On the contrary, Downey was a fighter of something more than local fame around Salt Lake City when Jack Dempsey first showed up in the land of the Mormons. He was fairly well known all through the Rocky Mountain West.

Downey was a middling good ringman—one of those fellows who never attained any wide fame or got anywhere in particular in Fistiana, but who was a tough fellow for the best of them.

The pugilistic woods are always full of fighters of that order. They are chaps who just fall short of being high class men. Some of them—partly from lack of ability, but more often from lack of opportunity—are never heard of outside their own section of the country, though they may be pretty well known to the people who follow boxing for a livelihood.

There was a fleet of third-rate hard-fisted gentry knocking around Salt Lake and that general section of the West a decade or so back. It included Morgan W[illegible]ams, Tom K[illegible]sley, "Dummy" Rowan, old Joe Co[illegible]ton, Andy Walsh, Rube Smith and numerous others you may never have heard of, who were probably not much more than second or third-raters at best, but who were not to be picked up as "suckers" by any raw hands.

DEMPSEY JUST STARTING.

Jack Downey was a sort of star around Hardy Downey's club when Dempsey arrived in Salt Lake. Dempsey was then a gawky, half baked bird, as green as grass, both as a fighter and in a worldly sense. As compared to him, Downey was a man with a reputation.

Dempsey's disposal of the two brothers caused Hardy Downey to cast a speculative eye over the newcomer, however, and the orb grew even still further speculative one night when Dempsey came around to another of Hardy's shows and offered to fight a chap who was booked to meet Downey.

This chap was a Colorado boy who called himself Young Herrera, after the immortal Aurelia. Whenever a man who has seen Aurelia Herrera fight sees one of these modern day tappers and hears their admirers tell how they can hit he has to laugh right out loud.

For how that Mexican marvel Aurelia Herrera could hit! How he could HIT!

He was a little fellow. The chap who called himself Young Herrera was a pretty good-sized man, but he picked a first-rate fighting nom de plume. He remained one of the original Herrera largely because he was so different. Little Aurelia could "sock" harder with a "[illegible]" punch than Young Herrera could when he was trying his darndest.

DIDN'T GET "HERRERA."

But Hardy Downey didn't let Jack Dempsey fight Young Herrera that night, although Jack fought him a couple of times afterwards. It was in Hardy's mind that this [illegible] young [illegible] from Colorado [illegible] his patrons some diversion [illegible] were he put on against the [illegible] Jack Downey.

"What do you think about that?" he asked Dempsey, [illegible] the same [illegible] a man [illegible] against a world's champion.

"I'll fight anybody," said Dempsey modestly. "Who is this Downey? I never heard of him."

"You may never have heard of him, but you will hear [illegible]," replied Hardy, "[illegible] you on [illegible] next Monday night. It is a great opportunity [illegible] I am go[illegible] to pay you—FIVE DOLLARS."

"[illegible] fine," said Jack, vastly impressed.

So on the following Monday night he [illegible] Downey, [illegible] was the extent of the fighting [illegible]

When Beards Flourished

THE reign of Henry IV. of France was the golden age of beards, for at that time as much attention was paid to them as to the dressing of the hair of both sexes. Louis XIII., then a child, came to the throne, and the beard had to go in honor of the hairless chin of the new monarch.

Copyright 1919, Star Company

"Nice, I [illegible] say it was!" Mildred exclaimed. [illegible] badly wounded [illegible] leg, and [illegible] on crutches for quite a while. Although he is [illegible] very lame—or lame enough to have to walk slowly with a cane. It will be months before he 's all right. And he is here in Fairlands to stay some weeks with his uncle. Then, later, he is going to Canada for a while. His own people live there—but Mr. Hilton is almost like a father to him. And Mrs. Hilton just loves him, too

[illegible] Hilton told me all about Harold's arrival just as soon as I got to the office this morning. He said that Harold had asked about me and wants to see me soon. So I hope to have some good times with him while he's here. You see, I wrote to him when he was in the hospital, and he told his uncle that my letters cheered him a lot."

"I don't doubt it," Honora rejoined.

"Well, I'm lucky in having an employer that likes me as much as Mr. Hilton does, and whose wife likes me, too. I have always been nice to her, for I know it pays to be nice to the family of one's rich employer."

Honora again forced herself to make some suitable comment. She was almost awed by the amount of diplomacy of which this little sister of hers was capable

CHAPTER LXXV.

IN spite of Honora's utmost endeavors to keep the talk at dinner that night on safe topics there were some awkward moments.

Mildred imparted her news with regard to Harold Hilton to Mrs. Higgins. The kindly matron, although striving to appear interested, could not forget that Mildred had only recently broken her engagement to Arthur Bruce. Nor could she understand how the modern young person can so soon recover from a romantic experience. Had she been in Mildred's place she would have been prostrated at the severance of such a [illegible] alliance.

It was in these stilted terms that the old-fashioned soul communed with herself.

She tried, nevertheless, to ignore what Arthur had told her and to chat of matters foreign to the affair. And, in doing so, her conversational bark ran upon the rocks.

"I declare," she said, "I am sorry for Dr. and Mrs. [illegible]. To think that such an agreeable young man as that should get himself into such unenviable [illegible]. And now perhaps he is going to [illegible]."

There was a moment's silence. Then Honora, feeling that something must be said, [illegible]—"I hope not!"

"So do I," Mrs. Higgins agreed promptly. Here, surely, was a topic that was far away from the broken engagement. Besides she was at heart a gossip, and took genuine pleasure in discussing the latest scandal. "Do you know, dear girls," she went on, "that I cannot be sufficiently grateful that neither of you ever fancied yourself the least bit in love with young Chandler.

A Home Shot

"Of course he came here to call on you both just as any young man might do. But it would have been a dreadful thing for a decent girl's reputation to have her name connected with [illegible] if you had ever encouraged his attention, your names might have been dragged into this awful affair."

An utter silence greeted this remark.

"And now," the widow [illegible], "the poor young man [illegible] I [illegible] proceedings [illegible]."

Mildred [illegible] vehemence.

"Yes, Mrs. Higgins," she burst forth [illegible] when a man does his divorce proceedings stop! But even if it is so great a to you to roll all those [illegible] details as a sweet morsel under your tongue, some of the rest of us would like to avoid [illegible]."

"Milly!" Honora warned

"I beg your pardon!" Mrs. Higgins said stiffly. "I did not suppose that I was saying anything that would offend anybody."

Had she been another type of woman she would have been angry at the girl's speech. As it was, hurt feelings usually took the place of anger with her. And wounded feeling is sometimes more exasperating to the person who has caused it than a display of temper would be. So Mrs. Higgins' apology but drove Mildred on to further intemperate speech.

"For pity's sake, Mrs. Higgins, don't take that tone! I suppose, now, that I have hurt you! But perhaps you can understand that this conversation has been painful to me when I tell you that Tom Chandler wanted me to marry him, and that I refused him."

"Milly!" Honora's warning this time was severe. "Be careful what you say."

Mrs. Higgins Apologizes

"Oh!" Mildred tossed her head. "I suppose I have a right to say what I please! If not, I may as well leave the table and go to my own room until dinner is over."

Mrs. Higgins was now so overwhelmed by her own lack of tact that she forgot her hurt feelings.

"My dear Mildred," she protested, "I beg your pardon! I might have known I was on delicate ground. I should have remembered young Mr. Chandler's attentions to you and [illegible] used to wonder that [illegible] that has occurred [illegible] But I did not [illegible] he refused him. [illegible]

[illegible]

"Well [illegible] anymore, Mrs. Higgins [illegible] magnanimous [illegible] more [illegible] sorry [illegible] never [illegible] gave [illegible] argument [illegible] only kind [illegible] mistakes and [illegible] brought [illegible] In my [illegible] hated him, [illegible] ever and [illegible] good company."

[illegible] Mrs. Higgins [illegible]

"May I [illegible] a word alone with you?" [illegible] asked

[illegible] the pair were together in [illegible] room with the [illegible] spoke gravely

"I [illegible] to you, Mrs. Higgins [illegible] Milly talked very [illegible] Naturally [illegible] by all this [illegible] as she knew Tom Chandler [illegible] consideration she was very imprudent in making those statements that [illegible] to you.

I was glad Hattie was not in the room at the time, and that, since [illegible] it was only in your presence—for you are wise enough to know what mischief might come from repeating such a conversation. I am sure you will never mention the matter to anyone."

Mrs. Higgins patted the girl's hand affectionately. "No, dear, indeed I will never mention it. The thing must not be suspected outside."

Honora was certain now that Mrs. Higgins' loyalty would keep her silent about Milly's indiscreet statement. Then, with a sigh, she wondered how long she must make explanations and apologies for the speeches and acts of her reckless little sister.

CHAPTER XX.

The Drop of Irish

[illegible] 1917, by Robert W. Chambers

The usual signs of land greeted Neeland when he rose early next morning and went out on deck for the first time without his olive wood box—first a few gulls, then puffins, terns and other sea fowl in increasing numbers; weed floating, fishing smacks, trawlers tossing on the rougher coast waters

After breakfast he noticed two British torpedo boat destroyers, one to starboard, the other on the port bow, apparently keeping pace with the Volhynia. [illegible] there at noon [illegible] along the passenger [illegible] at teatime [illegible] increased to five, the three [illegible] appearing suddenly [illegible] nowhere, dead ahead, dashing forward through a [illegible] under a swirling vortex of gulls

[illegible] curiosity of the passengers, always easily aroused, became more thoroughly stirred up by the bulletins posted late that afternoon indicating that the tension between the several European chancelleries was [illegible] and that emperors and kings were exchanging personal telegrams.

There was all sorts of talk on deck and at the dinner table [illegible] talk, speculative talk [illegible] discussions, logical and illogical. But boiled down to its [illegible] ingredients, the wildest imagination on board the Volhynia admitted war to be an [illegible] of [illegible] times, and that, ultimately, diplomacy would settle what certainly appeared to be the ugliest [illegible] situation in a hundred years.

At the bottom of his heart Neeland believed this, too, wished for it when his higher and more educated spiritual self was flatly interrogated, and yet, in the everyday impulsive ego of James Neeland, the drop of Irish had begun to sing and seethe with the atavistic instinct for a row.

War? He didn't know what it meant, of course. It made good poetry and interesting fiction; it rendered history amusing, made dry facts succulent

Preparations for war in Europe, which had been [illegible] for [illegible] years, were most [illegible] too [illegible] of [illegible] sombre [illegible] and [illegible] common sense and soberness with the [illegible] mystery of fortification

To a painter, war seemed to be a dramatic and gorgeous [illegible] to a young man it appeared [illegible] excitement [illegible] artist [illegible] was [illegible] the gambler [illegible] speculated as to the outcome of such a war. And the seething, surging drop of Irish fizzed and purred and coaxed for a [illegible] any fight which God in His mercy might provide for a decent gossoon who had never yet had the pleasure of a broken head.

"Not," thought Neeland to himself, "that I'll go trailing my coat [illegible] I'll go about my own business, of course—but someone may hit me a crack [illegible]

[illegible] and of the [illegible] regard [illegible] useful time [illegible] sorry [illegible] heart that it was all over and that the Volhynia was due to let go her mudhooks in the Mersey about 3 o'clock the next morning

As he leaned on the deck rail in the soft July darkness he could see the lights of the destroyers to port and starboard, see strings of jewellike signals flash, twinkle, fade and flash again

All around him along the deck passengers were promenading, girls in evening gowns or in Summer [illegible] evening dress or [illegible] as possible [illegible] swathed in veils [illegible] men in dinner coats and [illegible] headgear—every [illegible] conventional combination [illegible] decks of the Volhynia

[illegible] the [illegible] lounge [illegible] afe- [illegible] no [illegible] he [illegible] no [illegible] He [illegible] and he [illegible] the passing throng for a glimpse of [illegible] not seeing either of [illegible]

In fact he had not laid eyes on them since he had [illegible] not wisely but too well [illegible] that Scheherazade had [illegible] for him.

Stocks Have Sensational Advances in Both Markets

TEXAS CO. UP 20 POINTS AT OPENING

Big Gains for Atlantic Gulf and Many Other Issues

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, but the price level was below the highest for the morning. There was a slight recessional movement in the second hour, when profit-taking was general and affected a number of leaders. Oils and shipping issues were features throughout the forenoon. The market was very active, first hour transactions totalling almost half a million shares. It was also distinguished by startling advances for a number of issues, and large gains were shown by many others.

At its highest Texas Co. was up 22½, then selling at 292, after opening at 290, with a gain of 20½. Atlantic Gulf at its highest was up 3½ at 177½. United Fruit advanced 2 points to 189 during the morning. Other large morning gains were American Ice 1¾, American Linseed Oil 2⅝, American Sugar 2¼, American Woolen 8, Barrett Co. 2, Central Leather 2½, Mexican Petroleum 4⅜, Pan American 2½, Studebaker 2⅛, Industrial Alcohol 2¼, and Royal Dutch new 2¼.

Issues to sell at highest record prices included Atlantic Gulf, Texas Co., Pierce Oil, Pan American, American Linseed Oil, American Woolen common and General Motors. Others to sell at their year's highest were Anaconda, Central Leather, Marine common, American Sugar, Cuba Cane, American Ice and Studebaker.

OPENING WAS SENSATIONAL.

The market had a sensational opening. The demand for oil issues was remarkable, causing a 20 point jump for Texas Co. at the outset. Atlantic Gulf had the big gain at the start and there were many issues up a point or more on initial sales. Oils and shippings were the spectacular features during the first hour, with the market very active. Wall street is betting that there will be a two million share before the movement culminates. Steels were in more demand on the statement that there had been no agreement on product prices and the expectation of an open market. U. S. Steel opened above par and was bought in large blocks. Sugar issues attained their highest price level for the year. The world crop will be short and the demand greater than ever. Coppers had more life and strength, while rails also had a little better tone, and because of expectation that they will obtain a more favorable status now that Congress is to convene. One of the strongest bull influences was the latest government crop report.

WHAT WALL STREET SAYS.

Wall Street gossips are having a great deal to talk about and among other things are saying that the West is investing largely in shipping shares. Hitherto people in that region opposed a large navy for the United States, and as the most of them had never seen salt water, they had no idea of the value of foreign commerce to a country. Their transportation conceptions were confined to railroads which they did not like. Now foreign demand for wheat has given the western farmer $2.26 a bushel for wheat and he has become conscious of the need of ships. It is said that accumulation of tobacco stocks is by long-headed persons or discerning interests, who see more profit in the weed which Sir Walter Raleigh introduced from Virginia in days when Shakespeare wrote and Queen Bess ruled. It is figured that when alcohol goes, tobacco will be a strong comer. As for oil stocks, history repeats itself. There has never been an oil boom without a gambling craze for a harness mate. It is an old adage, "There is tothing like leather." That is good reason why leather should advance in price. It takes a long time to grow a hide and considerable grazing area to feed the animal that wears it. The war wiped out 25,000,000,000 head of cattle, according to estimates, and leather will be scarce for several years, if not always.

North American Silver Output

According to a leading refiner, silver production in the United States, Canada and Mexico amounts to about 172,000,000 ounces a year, but he added: "The 1919 silver yield from this continent will run much below normal owing chiefly to the curtailment which has been effected in copper production—with silver a by-product—during the past four months.

Directors of the Punta Alegre Sugar Co. have decided to recommend to stockholders for their approval an increase in the common stock from 160,000 to 240,000 shares. It is planned to offer each common stockholder of record July 1, 1919, the right to subscribe at par ($50) to one additional share of common for each three shares held on that date.

Local Exchange Seats Higher

It is understood that $11,500 has been paid for membership in the Boston Stock Exchange, compared with $10,000, the price at which several recent transfers were made. A higher valuation is put upon local exchange "seats" because the Boston market has become so much broader and more active.

Corporation Reports.

Byrne Bros. reports for year ended March 31, 1919, total net profit of $1,136,442, equal after preferred dividends to $13.21 a share on common stock, against $1,449,833 or $18.68 a share in the preceding year.

For 1918 Wells Fargo & Co. reports a deficit after charges of $2,176,000, against surplus of $1,454,000 in 1917.

UNITED FRUIT IS THE BOSTON FEATURE

Advances Nearly 10 Points on Local Exchange During Morning

There was a firm opening in the Boston market. Most issues showed small gains, but later in the morning a number showed a point or more gain. United Fruit was the feature of local trading, opening at 177, a point higher than at the close on Thursday, and continuing to advance. In the second hour it had a remarkable advance, selling as high as 185½, a gain of 9½. At this figure it was at its high for the year.

U. S. Smelting was strong and active, also selling at its year's highest. Nipissing was another stock to sell at a top price for 1919 to date. It was then up nearly a point.

Packing shares were irregular, with Swift & Co. weak from the opening until noon. Swift International was the strongest of the group, but failed to hold its gain all the morning. Coppers were steady, but inconspicuous, although Quincy advanced more than a point and Copper Range gained a point on the opening sale. Among issues to show some strength were Walworth, Mayflower-Old Colony, Ventura Oil, which sold at its year's highest, and Pacific Mills.

American Bosch Magneto sold at a highest record price, advancing more than a point. Franklin, a mining issue, sold at its low for the year.

The market was active.

Noon gains in Boston included Pacific Mills, 1 at 164; United Fruit, 9 at 185, after selling at 185½; U. S. Smelting, ½ at 59½, after selling at 60, and Bosch, 1¼ at 87¼.

INCREASED DEMAND FOR COPPER IS REPORTED

There is improvement in the demand for copper metal, according to the latest reports and as a consequence prices show more firmness. It was stated at larger agencies that some consumers are placing orders for future deliveries for the first time in a month or more. Stocks of consumers are believed to be low and any revival of the brass industry and an increased call for wires and cables will soon greatly reduce the copper surplus.

Already fair sized orders have been taken by leading producers who are holding out for 15½ cents a pound. The 15¼ cent quotation by small dealers and second hands also has been withdrawn and these interests are now asking at least 15⅜ cents delivered, with others holding for 15½ cents.

COPPER MARKET OPENS FIRM AND HIGHER

New York, May 9.—The cotton market was firm and higher at the opening, advancing from 22 to 38 points on first transactions, due to firm cables and wet weather in the South. The early trade feature was Liverpool trade buying of new crop months, supplemented by support from other foreign interests. At the end of twenty minutes prices were about 30 to 35 points net higher.

Opening prices were: May, 28.20; July, 26.65; August, 25.50 bid; October, 24.80; December, 24.40; January, 24.15; March, 23.87.

FAVOR RETURN OF RAILROADS TO OWNERS

Associated Industries of Massachusetts Convention Held at the Copley-Plaza

The joint convention of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts and the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce went on record as opposed to government ownership or operation of the railroads, following their conferences at the Copley-Plaza.

In regard to labor differences they urged legislation providing for the settlement by arbitration of disputes relating to wages and conditions of employment, and declared that service should not be interrupted or jeopardized by strikes. They favored relying on the Interstate Commerce Commission to regular all interstate rates and recommended that each State should have the power to regulate its own commutation passenger rates. A regional railroad system also advocated.

DISCUSS PRIVATE OWNERSHIP.

Several phases of the private ownership of railroads question were discussed, the most popular plan being one by which the Government would allow the roads revenue profits up to six per cent., all profits above six per cent. to be divided equally between the railroad, the public and labor.

Governor Coolidge, in opening the convention, said that transportation means more to New England than to any other section of the country because raw materials must be brought here and then shipped out again when manufactured. Unless transportation is adequate and rates reasonable there would be very little hope for this part of the country, the Governor said.

FOR PRIVATE OWNERSHIP.

"I think most of us feel that wherever an activity can be carried on through private enterprise, it is a much sounder policy to have it done that way," the Governor declared. "It is not that we distrust the government, but we American people who govern ourselves want to have our hands on our own industries and their management. It seems to me there is too much of a disposition to starve New England, but things now look better and some of us believe that the high rates will be reduced."

President E. G. Buckland of the New Haven road said it was doubtful whether private enterprise could now afford to run the roads with the present high rates of wages. He believed the government should pay to the railroads (after they have been returned to private control) a sufficient income to keep them operating without loss.

DIVISION OF PROFITS.

Luther M. Walter of Chicago, in presenting the "Security Holders' Plan" for the return of the roads to private control, also favored a 6 per cent. revenue and a division of all profits above that figure between the public, the owners and labor.

"The railroad question is the most serious problem confronting New England, and unless speedily solved millions of dollars will have been lost and every man, woman and child in New England will be affected," said Frank W. Witcher, president of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce. "New England is slipping backward rapidly, and unless we relieve the railroad situation it will drive out some of the best industries in the State."

SITUATION DIFFERENT NOW.

Nathan J. Batchelder, former Governor of New Hampshire, who presided at the banquet following the opening session, said it was only a step from the interests of the farmer to the interests of those in other callings and occupations.

Chairman Frederick J. Macleod of the Massachusetts Public Service Commission said that no man could say that the government ownership of the roads was not a war measure abundantly justified, but in peace times it was a different matter, and added that he believed public opinion now favors private operation of the roads. Josiah Quincy, representing Mayor Peters, said the railroad situation in New England was one thing that prevented Boston becoming a great seaport.

Congressman Joseph Walsh of New Bedford remarked that the next Congress will be of a different complexion from the last one and may have the effect of "repealing laws which allowed tremendous power to be conferred on some officials by reason of the war emergency—the sooner the better for the entire country."

Stealing Cider From Maine Farmers Against July 1

Sanford, Me., May 9.—Farmers who had laid in a supply of hard cider against the forthcoming dry period beginning July 1, are finding that they have more than a prospective drought to contend with. Thieves are depleting their stores, using automobiles for carrying away their plunder. Many of the farmers have entered complaints with the authorities that their hard cider is being carried away by the barrel, and in some cases in five barrel lots.

The authorities are baffled, for the question arises within their minds whether they can prosecute for the theft of goods whose sale is forbidden by the Maine prohibitory law.

Increase in Meat Costs

The increase in meat costs within a decade is shown by the fact that in 1910 high prices for cattle, hogs and sheep were respectively $9.50 per hundred-weight, $8.70 and $7.25. The average prices in 1918 were $10.81 for cattle, $17.12 for hogs and $15.55 for sheep, representing increases respectively of 13 per cent., 96 per cent. and 114 per cent.

Cuba's Big Sugar Crop

If weather continues fairly dry and cool the sugar mills in Cuba will be able to bring the crop up to the bumper total of 4,000,000 tons. A number of mills are establishing high production records. It is believed that the output of the Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation may total 4,300,000 bags, or 100,000 bags in excess of the previous estimate.

IDLE PIG IRON MILLS INCREASE IN NUMBER

Statistics for April show the pig iron industry is fast adjusting operations to a decreased consumption of this basic commodity. According to the Iron Age, fifty-four furnaces blew out last month, leaving 212 active, against 372 on September 1 last year, when the peak was reached. In April the output was 2,478,218 gross tons, or 82,607 a day, against 3,090,243 for thirty-one days of March, or 99,685 a day.

Capacity active on May 1 was 75,860 tons a day for 212 furnaces, against 93,165 for 266 furnaces in blast April 1. Production at the opening of this month, estimating charcoal iron, was at the rate of 28,000,000 tons a year. This compares with 39,052,000 tons in 1918. Not since May, 1915, when there were the first signs of war demand for American steel, has pig-iron production been at so low a rate.

Mail Order Trade Brisk

The increase of 45½ per cent. in April of the sales of Montgomery, Ward and Co. indicate that the mail order business is booming.

SILVER DEALERS AWAIT A BID FROM SHANGHAI

While further advance in the price of silver is expected generally, the trade is slow in making predictions as to the probable extent of the advance. It will depend partly upon the quantity of white metal which is wanted in Asia. Bullion dealers are awaiting a bid from Shanghai, as that will indicate the urgency of the Oriental need. It is rumored that China will want from 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 ounces.

As to expert opinion, P. D. Handy of Handy & Harmon said: "I do not see any ground for expecting any fantastic price for silver."

J. S. Scully of Zimmerman & Forshay said: "We may look for a good deal higher price. But just where the movement will go it is entirely too early to say."

Proposals.

THE Trustees of the Boston State Hospital desire bids on 250 tons, more or less, of the best quality anthracite stove coal and 30 tons, more or less, of the best quality anthracite nut coal, delivered in the hospital bins or at a designated place, as follows:

200 tons stove coal to be delivered at the hospital, Dorchester Centre, Mass.

50 tons stove coal to be delivered at the Psychopathic Department of the Boston State Hospital, 74 Fenwood Road, Brookline, Mass.

30 tons nut coal to be delivered at the Boston State Hospital, Dorchester Centre, Mass.

The location of the mine is to be specified in the bid.

Should the coal delivered prove to be of an inferior quality, the same must be replaced by the dealer at his own expense to the full satisfaction of the hospital authorities.

All coal must be delivered within sixty days from the date of signing the contract.

Bids will be received up to 2 o'clock p. m. on Monday, May 19, 1919, at the Psychopathic Department of the Boston State Hospital, 74 Fenwood road, Brookline.

Bids will be opened and publicly read at 2:00 p. m.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids, or to accept that which seems for the best interest of the institution.

A satisfactory bond for 25% of the amount of the contract will be required to insure the faithful performance of the same.

A certified check for 5% of the amount of the contract must accompany the bid. This will be returned to the bidder when a satisfactory contract and bond have been executed.

New League Covenant Would Forbid Noblest Deeds in Past

Article Ten of the new and largely altered League of Nations covenant provides that we are to > Respect and PRESERVE as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all nations members of the League.

And Article Sixteen provides that the Council, composed of nine nations, of which we are one, shall > Recommend to the several governments what effective military and naval forces members of the League shall severally contribute to the forces to be used to protect the covenants of the League.

The League covenant has been almost entirely rewritten and is considerably improved. After rejecting with disdain the American objections to the first covenant expressed by a majority of the Republican Senators, President Wilson has nevertheless with great carefulness and skill so amended the League covenant that many of the objections upon which any two important Republican Senators agreed have been removed.

But the two provisions we have already quoted remain. The storm that will rage in the Senate when the League covenant and the Treaty of Peace are presented for ratification—we hope by the middle of next month—will centre around these two clauses and in that clause which pretends to, but surely does NOT, remove immigration and tariff questions as possible causes of serious complications between the United States and other nations.

Under Article Ten we are to guarantee not only Siam and Persia and South Africa and all such possessions of Great Britain and other empires against attack, but we are to guarantee the integrity, for instance, of the British Empire in all its possessions, encircling the globe and constituting about one-fourth of the habitable world, even though their possessions be held in unwilling and unrighteous subjection by military force.

Under that clause we would not have acquired Arizona, New Mexico and California as we did for their advantage and advancement, nor could we have freed Cuba—the noblest war on which a nation ever entered.

We can only "PRESERVE" another nation, as we pledge our sacred honor to do under Article Ten, by holding always in readiness our armed forces to defend any nation threatened.

This means that our young men may be summoned at any moment at the command of the League to go to any part of the world to fight, not for our country and for liberty, but for some other country and perhaps for despotism.

It is true that we could not be compelled to go if our member of the Council voted against it, but when we accept the League covenant, that is, if the Senate should ratify it, our promise would be given. If we default in our promises to the League we invite discredit and perhaps disciplinary measures.

If the Senate ratifies the covenant as it stands we shall, therefore, be committed as a nation to participate in all the quarrels of forty-one or more other nations in all parts of the world. And even if our young men were not always summoned to fight in other and far distant hemispheres, we are at least bound to support the financial and economic measures necessary to carry out the decisions of the League Council.

A majority of the Senators, whose advice and consent are necessary for the making of this treaty, have given public notice that such questions as the tariff and immigration must not, under any circumstances, be referred to the League.

The clause in the new covenant which is SUPPOSED to overcome this insuperable obstacle to the acceptance of the first covenant is the following paragraph written into Article Fifteen:

> If the dispute between the parties is claimed by one of them, and is found by the Council, to arise out of a matter which by international law is solely within the jurisdiction of that party, the Council shall so report and shall make no recommendations as to its settlement.

We cannot believe that this very indefinite clause safeguards our sovereignty in that respect, or that the Senate will accept it as satisfactory.

Customs tariffs and immigration are indeed domestic questions. But they have also very often been the subjects of serious disputes between nations and thus became INTERNATIONAL questions. They cannot remain "solely within the jurisdiction of" one nation, because the same Article Fifteen of the covenant provides in its very first sentence that > ANY dispute likely to lead to a rupture the members of the League agree they will SUBMIT TO THE COUNCIL.

Immigration at the present moment is, and for twelve years has been, an ACUTE question between Japan and the United States. If the authors of the League covenant mean to exclude immigration and tariffs from the subjects which the League shall pass upon, why do they not say so?

Every notable success achieved by American diplomacy has been won in the past not by subtlety, not by evasion of a danger by refusing to discuss it, but by blunt speaking, by saying exactly what we mean, by being right and then going ahead.

The League covenant must square with this rule if it is ever to be ratified or work successfully.

It emphatically does not do so.

ALWAYS WORK ON A PLAN OF YOUR OWN

Try to be original.

One thought of your very own is better than the best thoughts of another.

But you say that So-and-So worked out an original plan and is coining money, so why shouldn't you adopt his method?

To the surface thinker you pass for the same as So-and-So, but to the one who knows you are simply a would-be copyist, a duplicate, and you would be surprised to see how many do know.

And so you go on studying So-and-So's way of doing things and patterning after So-and-So till you think you can do as well as he does at his own game.

If you would be as diligent in seeking an original plan as you are in copying your neighbor you might have "everyone copying" you to your satisfaction.

POET OF SANDY POINT

The launching of the Ferris steamer Waukomis at Sandy Point, Me., inspired John F. McInnis, local bard, to seven dedicatory stanzas. McInnis was affected by the sight. The second stanza of his poem, as printed in the Bangor Commercial, reads:

"They built a place for the women to stand, for to break the Old Champagne,
To christen the great steamer, "Waukomis" is her name.
Whenever I gaze upon that stand from my lips there comes a sigh,
Whenever I think of the Old Champagne it makes me awful dry."

Peculiar thing is that the Waukomis was not christened with champagne at all, but with spring water.

As the women walked along one said: "It's hard to remember all these war names and places. I know there was a battle at Chateau Thierry, but I don't remember Church Green. Was that fought in Belgium or France?"

Brookline may or may not admit moving pictures. But a shrewd blow for the general "movie" system was struck by Mrs. George H. Francis when she emphasized at the Brookline hearing the importance of moving pictures as an agency to assist the federal government in its patriotic and educational propaganda. Mrs. Francis is chairman for Brookline of the War Camps Community Service, and was chairman of the hostess work for enlisted men, which was carried on at the headquarters of that activity in the Boston Y. M. C. A. building.

Letters to the Editor

Editor Boston American:

Now that the demobilization of the 26th Division is under way and the men are on their way home, we, the remaining members of the provost guard, are wondering what will come next. We think that the time has come when we should be given some kind of consideration.

The reasons we give as to why we should be discharged are, that the work that is allotted to us takes but a small percentage of our men and could easily be taken over by the regulars that are in camp; that we think there has been partiality shown in former discharges; that we are sacrificing profitable positions, and last, but not least, that a man whether in the service or in civilian life who is dissatisfied with his occupation never does a thing right.

Thanking you for past favors, we, the remaining 145 members of the Provost Guard of Camp Devens, wish you would give this article your careful consideration.

MEMBERS OF THE PROVOST GUARD.

A UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE AGITATION ANEW

By Garrett P. Serviss

There is again much talk about the adoption, or creation, of an "international language," and we are told by the advocates of such schemes that never before has the civilized world been so greatly in need of a common language, to be read, spoken and written with equal ease on every side of the globe.

It surely would be a great convenience to have such a language in universal use. After it had once spread all over the earth it would be as easy to acquire as is what we now call one's "native tongue," for then it would itself be a native tongue for everybody, and in some cases it would probably drive the local language into the background, if not into a state of virtual extinction, like that of the present "dead languages," of whose disjecta membra the colleges and universities seem so anxious to disembarrass themselves.

To Be of Greatest Value

To be of the greatest possible use the international language would need to be learned, as indigenous languages always are, during childhood, and, that being the case, there would be instances in which the former, or indigenous, language would, to a large extent, fall out of use, the acquirement of two languages at the same time demanding too much mental effort and too great an expenditure of time.

There would thus come to be, in various lands, a literary language, treasured by the native inhabitants, and also a world tongue, a mere linguistic machine, without artistic value, in use by everybody. This would be the inevitable result if the international language were a manufactured article, such as, for instance, "volapuk," having no literary past.

Of the three rival plans that have been proposed, it seems to me that the third is the only one that is likely ever to be carried out. Here are the three:

(1) Make a new language, either out of whole cloth or by stitching together fragments of old ones. This is the "volapuk" plan, a typical German product.

(2) Select one of the old "dead" languages, such as Latin, and give it some modernizing touches. This plan appears to be favored in Italy.

(3) Take one of the modern "living" languages, and make no changes in it that are not really necessary.

Advantages of English

If it were not for the international and interracial jealousies, and the pride that great literary achievement imparts, the third plan would, I believe, be universally chosen, and I have no doubt, either, that, in that case, English would be selected by a large majority of votes. Its structure is simple, its vocabulary is rich and varied, containing elements developed from the roots of many other languages, and it has had such a worldwide experience that it has caught the cosmopolitan atmosphere, and may be said to be "at home" in every quarter of the globe.

To avoid arousing any prejudice, or sense of jealousy, it could be arranged, without too much formality, but by a general understanding of the directors of education in all countries, that, for the common advantage of mankind, English should be taught everywhere in the primary schools, as a universal medium of mental exchange, just as the meridian of Greenwich is by general agreement, and for the common advantage of all navigators, the international origin of longitudes and of world time reckoning.

Peace and Pandora
The Price of Steel
Our Big Contract

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1919.)

What the rich want GOES UP IN PRICE. Buy Liberty Bonds for patriotism, for investment and for QUICK PROFIT. Just as surely as you read this, the Victory Bond that you buy today and that the banks carry at 4¾ per cent. will yield a quick, substantial profit soon after you buy it.

To any man with a hundred thousand dollars a year income or more, the purchase of a million dollars in Liberty Bonds means an annual saving of $12,500. It has been figured out carefully and this statement is guaranteed to you—these bonds will go above par.

BUY THEM.

W. R. Hearst's International Film Company took an interesting photograph yesterday. Thomas Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., published the photograph last night on the front page of his New York Evening Post. It shows three American seaplanes starting out to fly across the ocean.

Human beings are all one family. The accomplishment of one race belongs to all races in a little time. We don't know the name of the first man that sailed out of sight of land, with only the stars to guide him. We don't know who it was that first ventured out of the mild Mediterranean through the gates of Gibraltar into the fierce Atlantic.

The future will not know or care whether it was an American, Englishman or Frenchman that first flew through the air across the Atlantic. But it will be pleasing to this country if it should prove to be an American.

Government and the steel company are "trying to agree on prices." That should not be difficult. Find how much a ton of steel now costs in LABOR, more than it did before the war; add that to the cost of the steel, with a reasonable increase in profit, if you like. That will fix the fair government price.

The great steel company which dominates the others owned the ore in the ground before the war, owned the coal. They cost no more except for labor to move and transform them. At least 90 per cent of the real increase in cost is LABOR and nothing else.

A first class bookkeeper will tell the steel company and the government how much the charge should be, and incidentally if he told the FACTS, and the government acted on them, it would do a good deal to check after the war profiteering AND Bolshevism.

Lady Pandora, according to mythology, manufactured by Jupiter to plague man, possessed a little box. Beside the box she had other things given to her by different gods, a human voice, great beauty, cunning, the art of flattery. But the trouble was in the BOX. When she opened that, out came all the ills of humanity and all over the earth.

The modern Lady Peace also possesses a little box called the peace covenant, she is starting off with it under her arm, and nobody knows just what is in it.

While Madame Pandora was walking on earth, nobody would have been foolish to assume responsibility for the contents of her box.

Any NATION is foolish now to guarantee the contents of the little box that Madame Peace is carrying with her.

Important to Americans unborn is the proposition that this country unite with England to guarantee France against any future attacks from Germany.

Just at present the guarantee seems simple enough. With Germany thoroughly crippled, France in possession of her coal mines and her iron mines and five billions of her money it seems like guaranteeing an active young bulldog against attack by a white rabbit.

Have the United States President and the United States Senate of today the right to bind and pledge the people of the United States in the future?

Now we say that if Germany ever again attacks France, the war shall be fought over again.

A hundred and fifty years ago, if the American authorities had said anything, they would have agreed to help anybody attacking England, for we were fighting England at that time.

There is no telling what we may be doing twenty-five or fifty years from now.

The United States is engaged in great adventures and great responsibilities; we have traveled a long distance from the time when Europe, Asia and Africa were far off, and all our thoughts were here at home. The way to make the best of this situation is KEEP THIS NATION WELL ARMED ON THE WATER, IN THE AIR, UNDER THE WATER, WITH SUBMARINES FREE TO GO AND HELP OTHERS IF IT MUST AND OUGHT; ABLE IN ANY CASE TO PROTECT ITSELF AGAINST THE REST OF THE WORLD.
